CONTEST WENT OVERTIME

London Scored Three in the Ninth,
But Fluke Spoiled It in the Tenth.

There has been good umpiring and bad umpiring, and umpiring that has been neither good nor bad, but for pure unadulterated highway robbery, the line decision handed out by Abbie Johnson at yesterday afternoon's struggle with Guelph certainly takes the bun.

It was the worst exhibition of judgment that has been shown at Tecumseh Park since the Canadian League first took up its abode there, and this in an awful knock to Mr. Johnson. London lost by the score of 7 to 6, after the game had gone into extra innings, and Guelph was pretty lucky to get away with it. In the ninth London needed three runs to tie the game, and it is needless to add that they got them. In the tenth Guelph added another, and when Keenan's bunch started the half of the tenth by getting a man on second and first without anybody out, the outlook was exceedingly rosy. But Bierbauer hit into a fluke double play, and the proceedings ended a moment later, with London one run to the bad.

The game was only good in spots, both teams displaying a lack of ginger.

Big "Babe" Schuman was on the mound for the Royals, and although he was touched up pretty freely he managed to work out of the pinches by good pitching.

The crowd once again took great delight in "guying" the big fellow, and he gave them lots of chances by his continual kicking at everything and everybody, even getting into a dispute with his own team-mates. Silex was hit when his meant runs, some pretty clean bingles being gathered off his delivery.

TWICE IN FOUR DAYS

Chicago, Aug. 15.—Jim Scott, who has not been able to beat anybody this year, licked the Tigers for the second time within four days. He put the Sox on the long end of a 6 to 1 score in today's battle. Scott didn't give the Tigers a chance today. They did give him nine hits, but they were so badly scattered that they yielded little score.

Contrary to general opinion, the women of the north dominate their men and their general desires on all domestic matters are carried into effect. The Indians marry young, for despite the latitude their development in rapid Polygamy exists among the Ojibwas and Crees, where there is no Christian influence and a man marries innumerable wives, but in others the disposition is to marry late, and in some the ability as a hunter. One man at Long Lake has three wives and 18 children. One observation throughout the trip was that the Indian women are peaceful, with little wailing from the children and no fighting in the tepees. To the Indian the love of family is almost as strong as the love of the tribe. At various times, and their affection, exemplified in life in their privations for one another, continues to the grave. The Indians are not avaricious, and every Indian arose and in turn approached him, each clasped his hand and said in a low, earnest voice, "I am sorry for you, my brother, for you are poor, and I am rich. I will give you what I have, and you will be rich like me." The mother, who had lost a child during the summer, was met at the landing by several Indian women, who kissed her upon the cheek and offered words of condolence and compassion.
