

LITTLE TALKS

BY THE WANT AD MAN

[Copyright, 1912, The International Syndicate, Baltimore.]

No. 5

THE other day a man sitting across the table from me in a down-town lunch room turned to the man seated next to him, whom he evidently knew, and said:

"Say—do you know of a good colored man who wants a job?"

His neighbor thought for a moment, and replied:

"No, I do not. Why, what do you want one for?"

"Well, we need a janitor, and I thought you'd know of someone suitable for the job."

A little later on, another man known to the seeker after janitor service came in and sat at our table. He, too, was asked if he knew of anyone looking for that kind of a job. The answer was negative.

Now, I wonder if that fellow who needs a janitor imagines that the average business man keeps a pocket directory of men looking for that kind of work.

I wonder if it ever occurred to him that, for about twenty or thirty cents, he could put a little Want Ad in a newspaper's Classified columns and, as a result, have his pick from several dozen janitors?

Wouldn't that plan seem to you to be a wise one?
