Valley Line at Both Ends—
V. V. and E. Building West

from Princeton Progress Made on Kettle River from Princeton

There promises to be unusual activity in railroad construction this year throughout the upper country and the lower Fraser valley and this means a wonderful impetus to the agricultural and fruit growing industries throughout the affected districts. So declared S. N. Dancey, of Merritt, who is stopping at the Empress for a couple of days. The Canadian Northern has organized several construction camps and more will follow, the Kettle Valley is promoting construction vigorously and the V. "I was talking with one of the highest officials of the Kettle Valley the other day and he told me that there was not the seast doubt but that his company would undertake the construction of a short line over the Hope summit this season. The charter has already been secured and it is likely that the Coquehalla route will be used almost exclusively after leaving the Coldwater valley. The rumored difficulties with the V.
