RECEPTION AND PRESENTATION.

A reception was held at the home of Mr. James McDavid, Flat Lands, Sept. 11th 1917, in honor of the Rev. R. M. Brown and wife, by the members and friends of the Restigouche Baptist Church. During the evening Miss Fella Ferguson, on behalf of the congregation presented the couple with a purse of $81.25, and the following address was read by the church clerk Mr. Wm. A. Palmer.

The members and friends of your church take this opportunity of expressing their appreciation of your services among us. A little over a year you came to this field, and by your earnest, faithful Christian work, you have won the hearts of the people. Both in your pulpit efforts and pastoral relations, you have proved to be a good minister of Jesus Christ and your services have been blessed. Since coming here the scattered interests of these communities have been gathered up and organized into a church, and you have been ordained a minister of the Gospel over this people.

In accomplishing all this you have manifested patience, taste and good leadership, and further in bringing to this field a pastor's wife to assist in the good work, you have both shown wisdom and greatly pleased the members of your congregation. And we desire to extend to Mrs. Brown a most cordial welcome.

To both pastor and wife we open our hearts and our homes. We shall try to be to you all a loving, faithful congregation should in every way, be both financially and spiritually to stand behind the work you are doing and will do in our midst, and we hope that these relationships, so pleasantly begun and now made stronger by the coming of Mrs. Brown may continue for many years.

As an expression of our Christian love and sincere appreciation of your work, we present you with this purse, and we ask you to use it in some way that will continue to remind you of your friends of the Restigouche Baptist church. We wish you and your good wife every happiness in the days to come.

Although taken by surprise the pastor in a few well chosen words on behalf of himself and wife, thanked his friends for their kindness, and assured them that their gift would be spent in a way that would continue to remind them of their friends in the Restigouche Baptist Church.

After a pleasant evening spent in a social way, refreshments were served, after which the guests departed for their homes.

Military Service Act, 1917
Explanatory Announcement by the Minister of Justice

THE MILITARY SERVICE ACT has received the assent of the Governor-General and is now part of the law of the land. It will be enforced accordingly, and the patriotism and good sense of the people can be relied upon to support it. Resistance to its enforcement, however, by word or act must and will be repressed, as resistance to any other law in force must be.

Reinforcements under the Military Service Act immediately required.

It is the intention of the Government immediately to exercise the power which the Act confers and to call out men for military service in order to provide reinforcements for the Canadian forces. This is necessary since the military authorities report that the reserves available, or in sight for reinforcement will shortly be exhausted unless this step be taken.

First call limited to men between 20 and 34 who were unmarried or widowers without children on July 6, 1917.

The present call will be limited to men not in the schedule of exemptions who were unmarried or widowers without children on 6th July, 1917, are at least twenty years of age, and were born on or after January 1st, 1883. Of this class all those will be entitled to conditional exemption whose services in their present occupations, agricultural, industrial or other, are essential in the national interest, and whose business or domestic responsibilities are such that serious hardship would ensue if their services be required. Considerations such as these, however, are not to be taken into account in the case of men who are called upon to serve in consequence of the economic and social life of the country.

Civil Tribunals to deal with exemptions.

Questions of exemption will be determined, not by the military authorities or by the Government, but by civil tribunals composed of representative men who are familiar with local conditions in the communities in which they serve, who will generally have personal knowledge of the economic and family reasons which those whose names come before them have had for not volunteering their services and who will be able to estimate the weight and importance of such reasons. Provincial Appellate Tribunals constituted from the existing judiciary of the respective provinces will be provided to correct mistakes made by Local Tribunals, and a Central Appellate Tribunal for the whole of Canada, selected from among the present Judges of the Supreme Court of Canada, will be constituted in order that identical principles may be applied throughout the country. In this way every man may rest assured of the fair and full consideration of his circumstances and the national requirements both civil and military.

Proclamation will announce the day.

A proclamation will issue calling out the backbone and widowers referred to and fixing a day on or before which every man must report for service to the military authorities unless he has before that day made an application for exemption.

How to apply for exemption.

Applications for exemption may be made by written notice on forms which will be available at every post office, and will be transmitted free of postage. They will not, however, be required to be made in this way but may be presented by the applicants in person to the exemption tribunals. The cases of those who have given written notice in advance will take precedence, and applications in person will therefore be likely to involve considerably more inconvenience and delay to the men concerned, so that it is recommended that advantage be generally taken of the facilities for written applications.

Exemption Tribunals in all parts of Canada.

The local exemption tribunals will be constituted with the least delay possible, consistent with the selection of representative individuals to compose them, and the instruction of the members in their duties. There will be more than one thousand of such tribunals throughout Canada, each consisting of two members, one of whom will be nominated by a Joint Committee of Parliament, and the other by one of the Judges of the existing Courts. Every effort will be made by the wide distribution of tribunals, and by provision where necessary for their sitting in more than one place to minimize the inconvenience to which men will be put in obtaining the disposition of their cases.

A Registrar will be appointed in each Province, who will be named by the proclamation and to whom enquiries may be addressed. Each Provincial Registrar will transmit to the appropriate tribunal the applications for exemption which have been submitted in advance of the sitting, and men who have sent those in will not be required to attend the tribunals until notified to do so. Other applicants should attend personally on the tribunal without notice.

How to report for service.

Men who do not desire to claim exemption will report to the military authorities for service either by mail or in person at any time after the issue of the proclamation. Forms of report by mail will be found in all post offices, and, like applications for exemption, will be transmitted free of postage.

Early report advantageous.

No man who reports for service will, although he may be medically examined and passed as fit, be required to go into camp or join a battalion until after a day fixed by the proclamation sufficiently late to permit of the disposition by the local tribunals of most, if not all, of the applications for exemption which may come before them. Thus no advantage will be gained by delaying or disadvantage incurred by prompt report for service on the part of those who do not intend to apply for exemption.

Facilities for immediate medical examination.

Immediately upon the issue of the proclamation, medical boards will sit at every mobilization centre for the examination of men who report for service or who, subject to their right within the time limited to apply for exemption, desire to have their physical fitness determined in order to allow any doubt as to their physical condition, or to know definitely and in advance whether there is a possibility of their services being required. Certificates of physical unfitness issued by these Medical Boards will be accepted without any further investigation by exemption tribunals when they sit. Men found physically fit who have not reported for service may nevertheless apply for exemption on any of the prescribed grounds, including even their physical condition if dissatisfied with the Medical Board's conclusion.

Notice to join the colors.

As reinforcements are required, notice to report to the nearest mobilization centre will be given from time to time to the men found liable and passed as fit for service. Disobedience of such notice will render the offender liable to punishment, but punishment for failure to report for military service, or to report subsequently for duty when called upon, will be imposed only by the civil magistrates; offenders, however, will remain liable for the performance of their military duties notwithstanding any civil punishment which may be imposed and will be liable to military punishment in cases in which civil proceedings are not taken.

Watch for the Proclamation.

Notice of the day appointed for the making of a claim for exemption or for report for military service will be published as widely as possible, but, as no personal notice can be given until the individuals called out have so reported themselves or claimed exemption, men possibly concerned are warned to inform themselves with regard to the day fixed, since neglect may involve the loss by them of important privileges and rights.

CHAS. J. DOHERTY,
Minister of Justice.

Ottawa, September 11, 1917.
