of age on the nineteenth of March, 18-, stout and short, with ankles like pump handles and no visible waist; and hands that were red and fat, instead of white and slender; and features that belonged to no srecian type or Roman mould, but seemed to be setting up, sui generis, each on its own special account, with no reference whatever to the others. For the world is not altogether stocked with Venuses and Hebes, whatever the romance writers would like to make us believe, and there is no reason why a plain female cannot be a heroine in spite of her looks.

But we have not mentioned the most important fact of all. Miss Dubarle had forty thousand dollars of her own.

And that was, without doubt, the well, no matter what year. And she was

And then, as Janet Heath began to cry,
Miss Dubarle marched out of the room.
"I never could endure the vapors," said Miss Dubarle. "I'll go to my niece them that I have for this little serpent's tooth of a Janet. I dare say she expected to be my heiress, but she'll find out her mistake, I guess."

And Miss Dubarle, who allowed no suns to go down upon her wrath, took the first train for New York, and slept that night in the fifth story of a marble-fronted hotel.

"I didn't think I should miss that child Janet so much," she said, rather dolefully to herself, the next morning, as she tried to comb out her tangled "back-hair," and nearly strangled herself trying to button up her own boots—"but I don't care! I won't give up to her love-sick whims, and I will go to see Maria Brooks and Herbert Smythe. Maria's little girl wrote me a beautiful letter last month, and all out of her own head, her mother said. Let me see—Eudocia her name was. Perhaps I'll adopt Eudocia."

Constable, are you?" "No, sir; I'm the baggageman."

— A stinging sensation in throat and palate called heartburn, and oppression at the pit of the stomach after eating, are both the offspring of dyapepsia. Alkaline saits like carbonate of soda may relieve but cannot remove the cause. A lasting remedy is to be found in Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspep tic Cure. Those associate organs, the liver and bowels, benefit in common with their ally, the stomach, by the use of this benign and blood purifying remedy.

And Mi.s Dubarle ordered a carriage and drove to the mansion of Mr. Secor Brooks, on an aristocratic side-street.

"They seem to live very nicely," thought the rich relation. "I didn't know Secor's income justified such style as "Outrageous?" suggested Miss Dubarle, somewhat discomfited.

"No—not that—outlandish! And you're going to die and leave me all your money, and then we're to travel in Europe. But —Mrs. W. J. Lang, Bethany, Ont., writes: I was one of the greatest sufferers for about five months with a disease of my car similar to ulcers, causing entire deafness. I tried everything that could be done through medical skill, but without relief. As a last resort I tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, and in ten minutes found relief. I continued using it, and in a chart time my car was cured and hearing short time my ear was cured and hearing completely restored. I have used this wonderful healer successfully in cases of inflammation of the lungs, sore throat, coughs and colds, cuts and bruises, etc., in fact it is our family medicine.
