BRIDGETOWN, MAY 31, 1876.

THE N. S. N. & A. C. RAILWAY COMPANY.

A memorial to His Honor, the Honorable Adams G. Archibald, member of the Privy Council of Canada, Lieutenant Governor of Nova Scotia.

The thoughtful, earnest attention of the people of Annapolis is called to a calm, dispassionate and powerful appeal, published by Thomas G. Stearns, and L. Bloomfield Page, Esquires, on behalf of themselves and other Corporators, in favor of the contemplated line of railway, to connect the Annapolis Valley and County with the adjoining Counties, of Queens, Lunenburg, and Shelburne.

The memorial is published in pamphlet form, and is addressed to His Honor the Honorable Adams G. Archibald, Lieutenant Governor of Nova Scotia, in behalf of the Nictaux and Atlantic Central Railway Corporation, as Corporators and Promoters of the same, and contains a fund of reliable statistics, valuable suggestions, and most important information for those in any way identified with the industrious classes, more immediately connected with the several counties proposed to be united by the "Nictaux and Atlantic Central Railway."

Railways are now as much a necessity for developing the industrial resources of a County for giving facilities to the Agriculturist, the Lumberman, the Mill-owner, the general producer of anything that has a marketable value, as was the old Coach Line, established fifty years ago, by Belcher, a necessity at that time for the people of Western Counties to facilitate their business with Halifax.

All classes now unite in the general view of the value of railways, just as they do in the absolute necessity of ordinary highways. The business of the County could no more be carried on today without railways, than a telegram could be sent from Bridgetown to Yarmouth, without wires; the wire has nothing to do with the actual transmission, it is simply the means of communication.

We dislike the idea of throwing imaginary lines around the Counties, and when any general improvement is suggested, good for all alike, for one to say—I am of Annapolis—another I am of Digby—another I am of Kings, and each and all looking at a great, spirited work, through their different County spectacles. The Nictaux and Atlantic Central Railway like the Windsor and Annapolis Railway, the Halifax and Pictou, and the Intercolonial line all should be looked at from the same stand-point as great Provincial Works, demanded by the growth and rapid development of the country. Bearing this in mind let us wipe out County lines as indicated upon the map, and for the purposes of the railway let it be "Nova Scotia," for the Nova Scotians, and through them for the Dominion, for the American Continent, and for the World.

We understand that Messrs. Stearns and Page are backed by well known capitalists, and can, with the aid of the several Counties, push forward to completion in a short time this line of railway. Earnest enthusiastic meetings have been held in our sister southern counties, and the general wish expressed has been "Give us an outlet to Annapolis County." "Give us an opportunity of crossing from the Atlantic sea board, to the Valley of Annapolis by railway"; and as the waters of the Bay of Fundy roll into the Great Atlantic Coast have the privilege of visiting their fellow countrymen, who dwell in the valley where Fundy's tide visits them twice a day.

Meetings are shortly to be called by Messrs. Stearns and Page, in the County of Annapolis, to lay before the people their Railway scheme, and we speak for their earnest, thoughtful, sympathetic hearing.

The proposed railway will be of great advantage to us, and when completed, it will build up Middleton and Annapolis, and give great facilities to our southern population, be the means of opening up the interior of our country, and be a great boon to the Province at large.

We cordially recommend a careful and attentive perusal of the pamphlet issued by Messrs. Stearns and Page to all the residents of the Annapolis Valley.

Before the Prince of Wales left England on his Indian tour, it was suggested by a member of the Indian Service that a suitable commemoration of his visit would be the establishment of a hospital for leprosy. There is a vague rumor that this is to be done. An official report that leprosy in India, by an eminent physician, Dr. Carter, shows the widespread misery it inflicts in that country. Dr. Carter states that throughout the Indian Peninsula there are altogether 100,000 lepers; in the Bombay Presidency alone their number exceeds 11,000 persons. The disease is of a contagious character and of long duration, lasting from eight to twenty years; it prevails among the lower classes, and generally attacks those who live upon scanty or unwholesome food. The leprosy, which the disease becomes manifest, are driven from their homes, and all connection with their families is suspended.

ITEMS.

Piper was executed in the jail-yard at Boston on the 26th inst. He met his death calmly. He died instantly, dropping eight feet. Frost was also executed at Dorchester to day, for the murder of his brother-in-law. It is reported that Pomeroy, the boy murderer, is to be hanged.

WANTED TO EXCHANGE.—Any sober, honest, discreet father of a family of six children, and a good-looking wife, who wishes to exchange places with us for a fortnight, can do so by applying at once, that is if his better half is all done house cleaning. Ours has got as fat as the back kitchen.

A constable named Sucker, of the police in Devon, England, was in pursuit of a girl who had committed felony, when she jumped into a canal with the view of escaping. The policeman followed her into the water, when both sank. Their lifeless bodies were recovered an hour later. The girl was only fourteen years of age.

Long John Wentworth, ex mayor of Chicago, is entirely bald, except a little tuft of hair at the base of the brain behind the ears, and on one occasion, when riding in the cars, he frequently took off his hat and scratched back of his ears, when a waggyh backwoodsman shouted out: "Stranger drive 'em up into the clearing, and you can catch 'em all in five minutes!"

The failure of a number of manufacturing establishments in the woolen trade in Massachusetts, says the New York Herald, is an unpleasant piece of news for the country at a time when we are all looking to a revival of trade. The fall in the price of commodities, which is in almost general progress now, must pinch all business, as the decline represents a loss in value when large stocks are held which will test the solvency of firms against whom there is not a breath of suspicion of weakness now. It is also a time in which keen business talent may reap its reward, as the story of the late A. T. Stewart so plainly shows. In addition to the talent there is also needed the courage to apply it.

EXTRAORDINARY SAILING.—On the 26th ult., there arrived at Liverpool, G. B., two American ships—the J. B. Brown under the command of Captain Keizer, and the Southern Cross, under command of Captain Ballard. The two ships towed out through the heads at San Francisco at 6 o'clock on the morning of December 31, 1875, side by side, discharged their pilots at the same time, and passed the Farallone Islands together. Met each other the next day, and parted company that night. Met again on the line in the Pacific, and again in the neighborhood of the Island of Pictoria, in the South Pacific. And did not see anything of each other until in about three or four degrees south latitude on the Atlantic side. Here they had it nip and tuck for a week or ten days, watching each other as a cat does a rat. Finally, a circumstance took place which the master of the Southern Cross says he never experienced before during a command in the East India trade for 26 consecutive years. Both ships arrived on the Equator side by side, bearing by compass east and west and on working up their latitude they found no latitude at all, not a fraction either way, in fact they were exactly on the Equator. From this point they parted company. Met again in the N. E. trades, and took logs from the same company. Towed up the Mersey side by side, and had the dock-gates been wide enough they could have entered side by side. As it was, the Cross led the way in the Brown following within a foot of her all the way.

HUNTED DOWN.

In January, 1874, James Conroy, a miner, was assassinated at Spring Brook, five miles from the city. Every circumstance pointed to a miner named Patrick Kelley as the murderer, and he had captured him, and either handed him over to justice or visited summary vengeance on him himself. A week after the murder Jennings started on his search for Kelley. He visited the mining regions of this State, and every haunt of murderers and other desperadoes therein, but although hearing of Kelley once or twice, could not get on his track. The mining regions of Ohio and Virginia were next searched. In Virginia he learned that a man answering Kelley's description had worked there and shot a miner, and was forced to leave. It was believed for Nevada. With only this slight clue Jennings set out for Nevada, and vainly searched the diggings for hundreds of miles. A month ago he returned home, broken in health, penniless, and disheartened, but learning that Kelley had left the country and that relatives had received letters from him from the Cornish mines he commenced preparations to sail for England. Last week at Mahanoy City, Schuylkill County, he was told of a man who was working in a mine near there who had on one or two occasions, while drunk, boasted of killing Kelley, and he immediately set out for Mahanoy City and obtained an interview with the miner. He was at once recognized as Kelley by Jennings, and made a desperate resistance to arrest, but was secured and locked up to await the action of the Luzerne County authorities. Kelley was also recognized by the officer as a member of one of the worst gangs of desperadoes in the coal regions. He was arrested recently for complicity in an outrage at Robinson's Patch, and was out on bail. When taken into custody he had on his person three loaded revolvers, a blood-stained bow-knife, a slungshot, and a pistol.

An observing correspondent, who has been doing up the Centennial Exhibition, notes the large predominance of ladies among the visitors. Nearly every man is accompanied by two or three of the gentler sex, and indeed it is quite the fashion for ladies to go to such exhibitions, and indeed, why should they not? The French department is peculiarly favorite of the fair sex, not merely because it is so rich in jewelry, silver plates, and other pretty things, but on account of the magnificent costumes displayed in several of the cases. Worth seems to have gone out of fashion in Paris for the great man-mani-maker is not represented at all with some of his rivals mask gorgeous exhibits. There is not one dress which is estimated at $9000. To think of a woman placing a small fortune on her back is a single dress, and in fact, the amount, that go with it—it is not to frighten any man out of the notion of matrimony. Two young ladies standing in front of one of these cases were speculating as to the cost of this magnificent apparel. Evidently not of the Flora McFlimny order of girls their ideas on such subjects were decidedly primitive. One guessed $500, and the other looked in blank dismay at such extravagance. Imagine their wild amazement when the polite attendant informed in broken English that the price was 45,000 francs in gold.

CHILD SAVED.—A very deplorable occurrence took place at Ohio, near New Germany, Lunenburg Co., on the 15th inst., when a little girl about three years of age met with her death through the discharge of a gun loaded with shot. The deceased was a daughter of Mr. Knox, farmer. At the inquest it was stated that the gun was left by a lad who lived in the house, upon a table, and that only the child and a dog were in the room, that by some means the gun was knocked from the table, when it is conjectured the hammer struck the floor barrel at the same time falling across a bench, when the contents were lodged in the upper part of the body of the child who was sitting in a rocking chair. Liverpool Advertiser.

A NOVA SCOTIAN CAPTAIN ROBBED.—Captain Well Gulliver, reported as the commander of a Horton, schooner, lost $50 on Sunday, in St. John. The money was stolen from his valise in the cabin by a boy. Part of the money has been recovered.—Chronicle.

DOWN.—A young man named John Crillean, well known at Woodstock, N. B., last week, while endeavoring to secure a lot of scumming that had broken loose in a mill-pond.—Chronicle.

The sheriff shall within one week thereafter at the Court House in the County where such vote has been taken, publicly open the books and declare the state of the poll.

6th. The laws in the Force now for conducting elections of members to serve in the General Assembly shall be applicable to the poll to be taken under this Act, so far as may be practicable, and when not inconsistent with the provisions of this Act.

7th. The necessary expenses incurred under the authority of this Act, shall be a charge upon the County, District or Township, and shall be paid by the rate-payers in the County, District or Township, as the case may be.

8th. After the vote of the rate-payers is declared, and if a majority be found to be in favor of taking the stock, the Clerk of the County shall, without delay, call a special meeting of the Peace, giving at least two weeks public notice of the same by advertisement in a newspaper, or, if there be no newspaper published therein, then by a written or printed notice mailed to each member of the Sessions at least two weeks before the holding of such session; and if there be no newspaper published therein, then by a written or printed notice mailed to each member of the Sessions at least two weeks before the holding of such session; and the rate-payers shall have voted to take in the stock of such railway company.
