-The temperance organizations of Canada are prosecuting a vigorous crusade against parliament for its treatment of the plebiscite result, and their influence will be felt in a auch stronger degree than ever before the coming federal election. No party sides have been taken, but a general conde of the members of parliament who voted that the country was not yet ready for prohibitio en resorted to, and great effort will be made to secure a stronger temperance ance people, if they were sufficiently in earnest to drop other less important poli in securing a parliament of prohibitionists could readily do so, as there is no doubt that they can poll a stronger majority vote than was represented by the plebiscite. They are learning their strength rapidly now, and the approaching battle of the ballots will before to show a proper interest in this great question of the day. Now the tariff policies identical, and voters will not need to worry a good government of either party. They may now safely subordinate mere party. mee. In the business world it is fast becoming the rule to put none but strictly the people of Canada would do well to apply

-The United States presidential election campaign may now be said to be fairly opened, and both parties are sanguine of success, This year the split in the Democratic ranks has been healed by substituting "anti-implatform instead of the "sixteen to one" cry of 1896. The gold Democrats have thus been seconciled, and the party should stand much better in consequence. Anti-imperialism is a safer theme for the hustings in these days when no good results of the Republican pelicy of expansion is apparent. The Philipines are yet unconquered, and in Cuba there is still such a state of quiet unrest tha is considered an adequate assurance of the continuance of peace. These are most unsatisfactory conditions for the Republican party to defend, and the American desire for a change has made and unmade govern ments, in the midst of prosperous times with no greater occasion for so doing than now exists. The Democratic "anti-trust" plank is also a popular one with the masses, and, all things considered, it must appear to an unprejudiced observer as if Bryan and Stevenson had a good fighting chance for

-The annual yachting event of the Great Lakes, the race between United States and Canadian yachts for the Seawanhaka Cup, is now taking place, and already the Canadian boat has won two of the series. Next of the America Cup races, these contests on the lakes are regarded as the most important designed defenders is very likely to turn the heads of Upper Canadian yachtamen and make them challengers for the America's Cup. And indeed we do not see why they should not compete for this larger trophy. The expense of the challenger is the great bar, but with yachting interest well on edge this difficulty could be overcome, and once this difficulty could be overcome, and once the difficulty could be overcome. The difficulty could be overcome, and once the difficulty could be overcome, and once the difficulty could be overcome. The difficulty could be overcomed to the difficulty could be overcome interested in that direction Canadian designers could be trusted to build craft as fleet as either the United States or British builders. Should Canada issue a challenge for the coveted cup, and the matter is already being seriously discussed, yachting sport in American waters would receive a great
