The Christian Herald Fund for the relief of the sufferers through the war has now passed the $30,000 mark. In the last week it increased by nearly $10,000, and the daily receipts keep getting more numerous.
Many of the offerings are small, but, as the letter, accompanying indicate, they are the result of self-denial and heartfelt sorrow for the distressed, and merit the encomium, "She hath done what she could." One man sending his wife's and his own subscription, adds that of his three little boys, which, he says, they earned by picking potatoes. Some of the letters of others are quite touching in their expressions of sympathy.

One member of the Christian Herald management has gone to England to organize a Committee for the wise distribution of the fund.
Earl Grey, former Governor General, and Sir Robert Perks were among the first persons appointed and have expressed their willingness to serve.
It is estimated that there are in Belgium 700,000 persons who have lost their homes and are facing actual starvation, a large proportion of whom are widows and orphans made by the war. There are also about a million Belgian refugees in France, and half a million in Holland and many thousands in Great Britain who have lost all and must be aided in this emergency. The New York Committee, after a careful consideration of the situation, has decided that these Belgians have first claim upon the sympathy of the benevolent and must be helped first.

The intention is to send back to Belgium, as soon as possible, as many of these refugees as can at all look after themselves. This, however, cannot be done for some time.
Winter is approaching, and will delay it, even if the cruel invaders should be driven beyond the Rhine.
Terrible is the responsibility and guilt of the nation which has inflicted upon an unoffending people such great wrong.

—Another paper, The Daily Telegraph, London, which like the paper referred to, has become noted for the larger sums it has raised for various philanthropic purposes, has originated a Shilling Fund, as a Christmas present for King Albert of Belgium. This King has proved himself worthy of his high position by his refusal to accept the bribe proposed by Germany, and violate his treaty obligations, by offering to make his country an open road for the German army to France. He has remained with his people, fought with his army, ate with the soldiers on the roadside, and slept with them in the field. His presence has been a great encouragement to all the Allies in their endeavors to turn back the invader. The Queen, also, while sending her children to England for safety, has supported her husband's efforts by acting as a nurse to the wounded. It has been said that while royalty in general has been figuring how far the big guns can shoot, King Albert has not been far enough away to find out. His courage and fidelity to his people deserves the proposed recognition. The Shilling Fund has already reached the splendid sum of $165,000, and before Christmas will, no doubt, become much larger.
—D. Rockefeller, Junr., President of the Rockefeller Foundation, which has under its direction $100, 000,000 for benevolent purposes, has announced its intention to aid non-combatants in the European war. As the Belgian refugees are the most needy, most of the aid thus furnished will go to them. A steamer with a cargo of 4,000 tons of food of various kinds has already been sent to Holland to meet the Belgian need.

The value of the cargo is $275,000.
The American Ambassador, in London, has informed Mr. Rockefeller that a million dollars a month for seven or eight months will be needed to prevent actual starvation among these distressed people. Never was benevolence on so large a scale needed, and never was it more deserved.

Those children of the town who have been holding concerts, the proceeds of which go to the benefit of the Red Cross Society are doing a commendable thing. They are aiding a worthy cause, the cause of the soldiers and sailors who are wounded and suffering for our sake.
They are also cultivating habits of self-denial, thoughtfulness of others, benevolence and patriotism.
They should be encouraged in their good work. Candies and ice creams are all right at proper times and in proper places. But, on sometimes wonders whether the children who constantly use their cents for the gratification of the palate are not cultivating habits of selfishness and extravagance which will grow with their growth and be an impediment to their thrift and comfort in after life. Parsimony is a vice, but economy is a virtue. The Penny Banks in a good many towns and cities of Canada have given boys a start in life which otherwise they would not have had, and have served to counteract the tendency to waste. They have also been the support of families in times of sickness and loss of work.

We are very pleased to chronicle these instances, great and little, of regards for the needs of others, and hope that the stream of benevolence will flow on in measure adequate to the requirement.

"The Holy Supper is kept, indeed, "In what we share with another's need;
"Not what we give, but what we share—
"For the gift without the giver is bare."
"Who gives himself with his alms feeds three—"Himself, his hungering neighbor, and Me."

Providence Methodist Church Anniversary Services

The Methodist people of the Bridgetown Circuit were highly favored by the presence and aid, in connection with their Anniversary occasion, of a former pastor, the Rev.
James Strothard, who was accompanied by Mrs. Strothard. Their friends gave them a cordial welcome and were pleased to observe that time has dealt so gently with them.
Mr. Strothard's sermons on the Sabbath at the three appointments contained, to use an expression sometimes employed by Scottish theologians, the very marrow of the Gospel, and will not soon be forgotten.
The heavy rain on Monday which extended into the evening prevented a large gathering at the lecture and the social function which followed.
But, those present listened with great pleasure to a very instructive and interesting address on "Beautiful Bermuda." A pastorate of four years on the sunny islands enabled the lecturer to speak largely from personal experience.

The physical features of the islands, their fauna and flora, their military importance as a part of the British Empire, their churches, their mixed population, their fitness as a resort for pleasure and health, and other features were presented in a chaste and attractive manner much appreciated by all present. The account of the intelligence of the native cockroaches and ants, especially of the latter, reminded us of what Lafcadio Hearn says, in one of his pleasant little books, about the ants of Japan, who live in well organized colonies and exhibit an intelligence, diligence and regard for law and order, which may well furnish examples to be followed by many communities of the human species. It was during Mr. Strothard's pastorate in Bermuda that about three thousand Boers were imprisoned in several of the small outlying islands.
His position as Chaplain of His Majesty's forces gave him exceptional opportunities to see these prisoners, and we were pleased to hear that while there were a few irreconcilables among them, the large majority on leaving the islands spoke in praise of the kindness and consideration with which they were treated by the British authorities.

Yarmouth Telegram: Airships and acrobats are reported to have been seen from Yarmouth, Shelburne, and in fact all over the Province. We hate to spoil these good stories, but this is the season for factots and other fake visitors, and it is probable that the meteor on Tuesday morning caused the latest excitement. It was seen by many and was said to be a beauty.
