

TO MY WIFE.

*Though fancy and the might of rhyme,
That turneth like the tide,
Have borne me many a musing time,
Beloved, from thy side,*

*Ah yet, I pray thee, deem not, Sweet,
Those hours were given in vain ;
Within these covers to thy feet
I bring them back again.*