

STONEHENGE.

Here is a picture of a scene in the father land. It carries back the mind to the time when the ancestors of the British people loved not the truth. Have our young readers any knowledge of the Druids and the early religious system of England? If not, perhaps the picture will suggest to them inquiry in relation thereto. They should be very thankful