When this was served and an attempt made to execute it, Mr. Borland came the audience in behalf of the Provincial Freeman, forward, informed the wondering natives that a paper recently established in this city, devoted no authority existed at Greytown for "arresting or in any way interfering with an American citizen," and bringing forward his rifle, in place tation, then addressed the audience; and after some remarks from Mr. Harris and others, the constabulary to withdraw. MEMBERS OF PARLIAMENT FOR UPPER and before a mob, Mr. Borland seemed to have For the following classification we are indebted to our contemporary of the from the crowd was hurled at Mr. Minister Borland and struck him; but the Mayor, a Frenchman, distinctly disclaimed any share in the attempt to take the diplomatist into custody, apologised for the rude proceedings of the natives whom it was obvious that he could not controul, and even offered a reward for the apprehension of the guilty bottle-heaver. Mr. Borland thus had saved Capt. Smith from legal clutches; and if his own dignity were slightly ruffled and his own skin slightly scratched, he was not himself made prisoner, and received a suitable amende for the insult that he had brought upon himself. What story he told on his return to Washington, we have no means of knowing; nor can we tell in what manner this personal affair was mixed up with a previous embittered dispute between the Nicaragua Transit Company's officers on the spot, and the authorities of the hapless town. But the sequel is astonishing. The U. S. sloop-of-war Cayane was ordered forthwith to Greytown, and Commander Hollins instructed to exact reparation or take revenge. He arrived there on the 11th inst., and on the 12th issued a proclamation, warning the inhabitants that by 9 a.m. on the following day the authorities must make an ample apology for the insult to Mr. Borland, and must hand over twenty-four thousand dollars to the Transit Company by way of damages. The penalty for non-fulfilment of this injunction was bombard-ment of the town! The inhabitants paid no attention to the threat, beyond placing themselves and their families in the woods, and out of the reach of gun-shot. Commander Hollins was punctual to the minute. During several hours his great guns played upon the dwellings and ware-houses; until finally at 4 p.m., finding the enemy, and shot. tachment of Marines on shore to apply the torch and complete the work. Greytown speedily disappeared in smoke and ashes. It was the rainy season, and though, owing to the total evacuatian of the place, no lives were lost, the sufferings of the outcasts may be imagined. Viewing the provocation offered and the injury done, is it too much to say that the U. S. Diplomatist has instigated, the President of the U. S. has authorised, and a naval officer of the U. s. has executed, a most unjustifiable and inhu-Now, it is well known that Greytown, which was and is not, had long been the theatre of petty contests between British and American interests; that the latter had finally prevailed; and that the two governments had agreed to recognise an anomalous municipality, for the sake of peace and undisturbed commerce. Apart, therefore, from the wrong and the cruelty of the deed, it was difficult to find any sort of political excuse for it. The trade of the place was in the hands of foreigners of every nation, but mostly of this one; and the government here will have to satisfy the demands of its own citizens, as well as those of other countries, for so wanton a destruction of their property. We should have mentioned, by the way, that H. B. M. schooner Bermuda way lying in port at the time, and that Lieut. The DEPLOKABLE ACCIDENT IN THE BAY.—Ar accident has occurred in our usually placid and pleasant waters, which must carry mourning into several families. Mr. J. Law, a young man in the employ of Mr. Miller, who was of the party in the boat, struck out for shore, and was happily seen by some persons on board Capt. Strachan's yacht, who immediately lowered a boat, and pushing hard arrived in time to save him. Several boats went out on the melancholy errand of bringing in the bodies, but up to 4 o'clock we could not hear that any of them were found. The death of this estimable lady was caused by that atal disease which has carried lamentation and mourning and we into so many families around us. As in almost all similar cases, the termination of the disease by the approach of death, was awfully sudden Attacked with the first symptoms of cholera towards morning, before evening of the same day she had ceased to suffer—By the death of Mrs. Vankoughnet the poor have been deprived of one whose heart ever sympathized with their sorrows, and whose hand was ever open to relieve their distresses. In her removal the Church mourns the loss of a faithfully attached member, a regular attendant on her services, and a devout and constant communicant at the Lord's table. By this melancholy event a deep gloom has overshadowed a wide circle of friends, to whom she was endeared by many amiable qualities. While to her family, her children, and her deeply afflicted husband, the anguish caused by this irreparable loss can only be effectually mitigated by the consolatory hope that she whom they so tenderly loved has been removed from a world of many trials, into that "rest that remaineth for the pople of God."
