

when in his sixtieth year... The September Wide Awake is a bright, descriptive and story-telling number full of strength and excellence. Prominent among its illustrated papers is a charming description of Old Plymouth and Plymouth Rock as they look to young tourists, under the title of "A Red Letter Day," profusely illustrated. A paper on "Our Lighthouses and Lightships," is full of new and interesting material about these guardians of our coasts. Sophie Swett has a capital boys' story of school and cricket. ... In the September Century is a finely illustrated article on the Grand Falls of Labrador. ... In the September Atlantic Monthly is a poem dedicated by Oliver Wendell Holmes, on his 83rd birthday, to his brother poet John Greenleaf Whittier. The death since of the latter, gives an additional interest to the poem. ... In University Extension for August are two very interesting articles, "Extension Teaching in Botany" and "Literature a Criticism of Life." This is number two of the second volume of this valuable periodical. ... A philosophical discussion of much value and interest to thoughtful people of the best methods of really learning foreign languages, is given by Dr. Howell T. Pershing, in an article on "Language and Brain Disease," in The Popular Science Monthly for October.
