The booklet I Declare describes what you can and cannot bring back to Canada if you have been away for less than a year. For information on how to order this booklet, turn to page 32.

Illegal Souvenirs

While travelling outside Canada, you may decide to purchase souvenirs. Unfortunately, many attractive items sold in foreign countries are made from endangered plants or animals.

Crocodile-skin briefcases and wallets, python-skin boots, ivory bracelets and carvings, coral earrings, cactus rainsticks, tortoise shells, orchids and parrots are some of the more common items illegally brought back to Canada. These items are included in the more than 40,000 species of wild animals and plants regulated under the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species of Wild Fauna and Flora (CITES). Under Canada's Wild Animal and Plant Protection and Regulation of International and Interprovincial Trade Act (WAPPRIITA), a violation of CITES could lead to seizure of your purchase, as well as stiff penalties of up to $150,000 and/or prison terms of up to five years.

The same rules apply if you already own an item made from a controlled wild animal or plant and you wish to take it out of Canada. Since other countries also have strict laws, it's safer to leave these items at home.

To determine what you can and cannot legally bring back into Canada, please call Environment Canada at (819) 997-1840 or fax them at (819) 953-6283.

After Residing Abroad

After a stay abroad of more than a year, there are special import provisions for household items and personal belongings when you move back to Canada. Information is contained in the brochure Moving Back to Canada?, available from Canadian missions abroad, your local customs office or from the Communications Branch, Revenue Canada, Customs and Excise, Ottawa, Ontario, K1A 0L5, telephone (613) 993-0534 or 1-800-461-9999 (within Canada).
