

lantern-top, a very
-the latter in The
to the subject, but t that these birds
n the wind is con-
or therein lies the ad of wing and the equentially, one that e curious position ces the wind. Wo of a boy's kite. It as it does—not by
and a trifle of tilt-keeps it from being elligence of the bird act the force of the
to the wind; it is body to fall against l—are opposed, and

n answer to one sugys: "I have thought
us say it is not posect line, opposite to r of buoyancy, which irectly down like a
is—a thin, exceed-ind, and that, by its s and body rigid and endency downward.
the wind as the kite
g. It is not uncom-
air by the wind, and d, to shoot forward ould this paper, just t the wind, act to tilt ckward and upward
by intelligent action, lancing on the wind.

otable in the sense
is cognizant, and is

Grallariidae
Scolopax

Aramus giganteus
Crying Bird

Famulus
Tachypetidae
Alcedo

Tachypetes aquilus
Frigate Bird

Alca impennis
Great Auk

Aptenodytes patagonica
Penguin

