

DAISIES

WHITE daisies that are swept
By winds which softly blow,
They are the tears by little children wept
And now in pastures grow.