

DOROTHY DIX'S TALKS

HOW SHOULD A POOR MAN TREAT HIS WIFE?

By DOROTHY DIX
The World's Highest Paid Woman Writer.

I have received a letter from a woman who asks me to write an article on "How a poor man should treat his wife." I think that the poor man should treat his wife with more consideration, tenderness and affection than the rich man does his wife, because these are all that the poor man has to give to make her life worth living.

He has been out with other men who were joking, telling stories, swapping ideas on the news of the day. So I think that the poor man, instead of burying himself with his pipe in silence, should make a conscious effort to entertain his wife. He should relate to her the little budget of gossip he has collected during the day, and listen with interest to the things she has been thinking and help her to solve the problems that are troubling her.

I think that the poor man should give his wife all the pleasure that he can. He should not feel that because he carries the money he has, he is right to indulge himself in amusements while his wife stays shut at home. The price of a round of drinks, or a few games of cards, will take the wife and kiddies to the movies, or on a cheap Sunday excursion, or a picnic to the park, and give them something to think and talk about for weeks on end.

And when there is not money even for that, the streets are free, and many a poor woman would feel that she had had the treat of her life if only her husband would ask her to take a walk with him on an evening, and if he would stop before the jewellers and buy her a pair of earrings, or dressmakers' windows, and pick out for her the lovely things that he would like to deck her out in if only he were rich. It is the millionaires who will adorn themselves in these fine feathers, and would feel as if he had given them to her.

Above all, the poor man should tell his wife continually of his love for her, and make her feel that his affection is something real, living, warm, a well of tenderness that can never be exhausted, a blessing that is great that it makes riches and luxuries pale into insignificance. The poor man should wrap his wife in his love as in a real garment. He should kiss her with his hands, and have grown hard and callous working for him. He should tell her that the face that care, anxiety and hardship have made old before his time is the most beautiful one in the world to him. He should thank her over and over again for the sacrifices she makes for him and his, and make her feel that she is doing the biggest and finest work in the world, in making a home for her man, and raising up a family of children to be useful men and women.

If the poor man would treat his wife in this way there would be no more complaining, dissatisfied, fretful women whining at their doors, for their husbands would make their jobs worth while. It is because women think that their husbands don't care that they grow disgruntled and spiteful. After all it doesn't take much to make a woman, rich or poor, happy. A little love, a little tenderness, a little consideration, a few words of thanks, give the meanest lot and turn a pauper into a princess.

What a pity that men so often withhold their love from the women that would make them rich. (Copyright, 1918, by the Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.)

And if the wife's temper has sometimes got a razor edge she should try to visualize to himself what it is to stand over a wash tub, or a hot stove with an aching head and a throbbing back, and every nerve shrieking aloud in agony until she is half mad with the strain of it all.

I think that the poor man should try to be a companion to his wife, to cheer her up, and bring something bright and breezy into her life when he comes home at night. Her work has been done in the narrow confines of her home, she has been done in the big, outside world. Perhaps she has not seen a new face, or exchanged a word with anyone but the children

SOCIETY

Conducted by Mrs. Edmund Phillips

The Lieutenant-Governor and Lady Hendrie motored up to the Caledon Club and spent a few days there at the beginning of the week.

Lady Hendrie is giving an at home at Government House this evening for the delegates to the annual meeting of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire.

The National Chapter, I.O.D.E., gave a successful at home last night in the galleries of the Art Museum of the Orange, when the rooms and halls were beautiful and fragrant with masses of lilac, purple mauve, white and the exquisite double white and Persian white spray mauve. The buffet supper table at the end of the corridor, between the galleries, was centered with a magnificent stand of lilac and flame-colored gladioli, where most delicious fruit cup and feathery sponge cake was dispensed by Mrs. W. E. Gooderham and Miss Maude Arthur.

The drawing room was filled with the cream of the social set, and the table in the dining-room bore vases of yellow tulip, diamond necklace; Mrs. Borde (Montreal), electric blue satin, embroidered with pearls and diamonds; Mrs. Hargrave and Mrs. Duff poured the tea and coffee. Miss Jean Galloway wore her bridesmaid's frock of mauve crepe de chine, with bouquet of mauve sweet peas. The other assistants were Mrs. W. S. Galloway, Mrs. Alex. Galloway, Mrs. Edna Galloway, Miss Hazel Arnold, Miss Effie Simpson, Miss Christine Farmer, Mrs. James Davidson and Miss Edna Farmer.

At the annual meeting of the I.O.D.E. at the Dominion Hotel, Mrs. W. S. Galloway, president, presided over the business session. Mrs. W. S. Galloway, president, presided over the business session. Mrs. W. S. Galloway, president, presided over the business session.

At the meeting of the Women's Liberal Club, held yesterday afternoon, Mrs. J. W. Bundy in the chair, incorporated under the new War Charities Act was discussed, together with dehydration and registration. Miss Dent spoke, explaining things connected with registration. It was decided that coming out must be taken up this season, provided the price of sugar will not make this prohibitive.

QUEEN MARY'S Needlework Guild in Ontario silver wedding shower and general meeting will be held in the Speaker's chambers of the Parliament Buildings on Friday afternoon, May 31st, at half past three o'clock. Contributors and interested friends are asked to accept this notice—no invitations being mailed. Teachers are cordially invited to attend.

ANNOUNCEMENT of the Young Women's Christian Association of Toronto will be held at 21 McGill street, on Friday, May 31, at 3:30 p.m. Capt. R. A. Dornal will speak. Reports of the year's work will be given and the election of the board of directors held. The public are invited.

OPENING OF NEW 5, 10 and 15c STORE
LARGEST IN CANADA
Friday, 3 p.m., For Inspection
(Bodley's Orchestra in Attendance)
Saturday Morning for Business
150 Clerks Prompt Service
BIG BARGAINS
185 Yonge Street Opposite Eaton's

LEAVES FOR NEW JERSEY. Toronto Financial Editor Joins Standard Oil Company Staff.

A pleasing ceremony held at the Globe office yesterday afternoon was a presentation to Victor Ross, for the past nine years financial editor, who is leaving to accept the position of assistant to Walter C. Teague, president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. The presentation consisted of two beautiful pieces of original Wedgwood Etruscan ware in basalt design. They comprise a vestal lamp and a reading lamp, both arranged to use whale oil. Stewart Lyon, editor of the Globe, made the presentation on behalf of the staff.

IDENTIFIED IN MOVIES. Windsor, May 30.—Daniel Little, a 19 years old Windsor youth, who dropped from sight nearly three years ago, and who was given up for dead, is fighting in France with the American army. This fact has just been established by the identification of Little in a movie picture shown at a local theatre. A younger brother, identified the youth as one of a group of soldiers shown in an army training camp at Fort Sheridan, Ill. A letter from the war department at Washington brought the information that Little is now serving with his regiment overseas.

WOMEN'S PRESS CLUB. A number of members of the Women's Press Club met at Murray-Kay's yesterday to meet Mrs. Livesey of Winnipeg, who was the special guest of the occasion. At the request of the gathering Mrs. Livesey gave a short account of the manner in which she became interested in the writing of songs and poems after the manner of the folk songs of Galicia. She first realized the value of these fascinating additions to literature and music thru the stories and traditions told her by the Ruthenian domestics whom she had taken in her home.

WOMEN'S LIBERAL CLUB. At the meeting of the Women's Liberal Club, held yesterday afternoon, Mrs. J. W. Bundy in the chair, incorporated under the new War Charities Act was discussed, together with dehydration and registration. Miss Dent spoke, explaining things connected with registration. It was decided that coming out must be taken up this season, provided the price of sugar will not make this prohibitive.

helpful relations between capital and labor. In reply, Mr. Ross referred to the satisfaction he felt in looking back to the friendly help he had experienced during his twenty-one years' connection with The Globe, and his appreciation of the kindly spirit shown to him by the staff.

KEEP DEPOT OPEN. The boot and shoe campaign of the friends of France is meeting with success, but the committee in charge ask that citizens will speed up with their offerings. The receiving depot at 11 East King street will be open all Saturday evening as well as during today and tomorrow. A call to phone N. 7440 or M. 71 will bring the get guides to carry away collection.

SPORT SKIRTS and "White Ducks" demand FLEET FOOT Summer Shoes

Big Sisters Meet. A meeting of the big sisters was held at the home of Mrs. Ralph Connable yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Frank Johnson in the chair, Miss Hall of Hulmeville House gave some accounts of the girls under her charge, and final arrangements were made for a garden party, to be held in the near future. Mrs. Johnson gave an interesting account of the work of the newly organized women's patrol.

WOMEN'S PRESS CLUB. A number of members of the Women's Press Club met at Murray-Kay's yesterday to meet Mrs. Livesey of Winnipeg, who was the special guest of the occasion. At the request of the gathering Mrs. Livesey gave a short account of the manner in which she became interested in the writing of songs and poems after the manner of the folk songs of Galicia. She first realized the value of these fascinating additions to literature and music thru the stories and traditions told her by the Ruthenian domestics whom she had taken in her home.

WOMEN'S PRESS CLUB. A number of members of the Women's Press Club met at Murray-Kay's yesterday to meet Mrs. Livesey of Winnipeg, who was the special guest of the occasion. At the request of the gathering Mrs. Livesey gave a short account of the manner in which she became interested in the writing of songs and poems after the manner of the folk songs of Galicia. She first realized the value of these fascinating additions to literature and music thru the stories and traditions told her by the Ruthenian domestics whom she had taken in her home.

WOMEN'S PRESS CLUB. A number of members of the Women's Press Club met at Murray-Kay's yesterday to meet Mrs. Livesey of Winnipeg, who was the special guest of the occasion. At the request of the gathering Mrs. Livesey gave a short account of the manner in which she became interested in the writing of songs and poems after the manner of the folk songs of Galicia. She first realized the value of these fascinating additions to literature and music thru the stories and traditions told her by the Ruthenian domestics whom she had taken in her home.

WOMEN'S PRESS CLUB. A number of members of the Women's Press Club met at Murray-Kay's yesterday to meet Mrs. Livesey of Winnipeg, who was the special guest of the occasion. At the request of the gathering Mrs. Livesey gave a short account of the manner in which she became interested in the writing of songs and poems after the manner of the folk songs of Galicia. She first realized the value of these fascinating additions to literature and music thru the stories and traditions told her by the Ruthenian domestics whom she had taken in her home.

WOMEN'S PRESS CLUB. A number of members of the Women's Press Club met at Murray-Kay's yesterday to meet Mrs. Livesey of Winnipeg, who was the special guest of the occasion. At the request of the gathering Mrs. Livesey gave a short account of the manner in which she became interested in the writing of songs and poems after the manner of the folk songs of Galicia. She first realized the value of these fascinating additions to literature and music thru the stories and traditions told her by the Ruthenian domestics whom she had taken in her home.

WOMEN'S PRESS CLUB. A number of members of the Women's Press Club met at Murray-Kay's yesterday to meet Mrs. Livesey of Winnipeg, who was the special guest of the occasion. At the request of the gathering Mrs. Livesey gave a short account of the manner in which she became interested in the writing of songs and poems after the manner of the folk songs of Galicia. She first realized the value of these fascinating additions to literature and music thru the stories and traditions told her by the Ruthenian domestics whom she had taken in her home.

WOMEN'S PRESS CLUB. A number of members of the Women's Press Club met at Murray-Kay's yesterday to meet Mrs. Livesey of Winnipeg, who was the special guest of the occasion. At the request of the gathering Mrs. Livesey gave a short account of the manner in which she became interested in the writing of songs and poems after the manner of the folk songs of Galicia. She first realized the value of these fascinating additions to literature and music thru the stories and traditions told her by the Ruthenian domestics whom she had taken in her home.

WOMEN'S PRESS CLUB. A number of members of the Women's Press Club met at Murray-Kay's yesterday to meet Mrs. Livesey of Winnipeg, who was the special guest of the occasion. At the request of the gathering Mrs. Livesey gave a short account of the manner in which she became interested in the writing of songs and poems after the manner of the folk songs of Galicia. She first realized the value of these fascinating additions to literature and music thru the stories and traditions told her by the Ruthenian domestics whom she had taken in her home.

WOMEN'S PRESS CLUB. A number of members of the Women's Press Club met at Murray-Kay's yesterday to meet Mrs. Livesey of Winnipeg, who was the special guest of the occasion. At the request of the gathering Mrs. Livesey gave a short account of the manner in which she became interested in the writing of songs and poems after the manner of the folk songs of Galicia. She first realized the value of these fascinating additions to literature and music thru the stories and traditions told her by the Ruthenian domestics whom she had taken in her home.

WOMEN'S PRESS CLUB. A number of members of the Women's Press Club met at Murray-Kay's yesterday to meet Mrs. Livesey of Winnipeg, who was the special guest of the occasion. At the request of the gathering Mrs. Livesey gave a short account of the manner in which she became interested in the writing of songs and poems after the manner of the folk songs of Galicia. She first realized the value of these fascinating additions to literature and music thru the stories and traditions told her by the Ruthenian domestics whom she had taken in her home.

WOMEN'S PRESS CLUB. A number of members of the Women's Press Club met at Murray-Kay's yesterday to meet Mrs. Livesey of Winnipeg, who was the special guest of the occasion. At the request of the gathering Mrs. Livesey gave a short account of the manner in which she became interested in the writing of songs and poems after the manner of the folk songs of Galicia. She first realized the value of these fascinating additions to literature and music thru the stories and traditions told her by the Ruthenian domestics whom she had taken in her home.

Polly and Her Pals

BUT ASHUR WOULD BE WILLING TO BE AN INVALID FOR LIFE.

By Sterrett

