"United Brethren in Christ" are in various parts of Canada and the United States. In 1889, at a general conference held at York, Pa., 15 of the 125 delegates present objected to the admission of Freemasons as members, and to certain other changes in the constitution, and seceded. Ever since litigation has been going as a recorded. litigation has been going on as regards the ownership of the property belonging to the organization. The "Liberal" or main section of the church, holds onto the property, and the seceders, or "Radicals," do the same. There is a church of this body at Port Elgin, Ont., the trustees of which have sympathized with the seceders and sought to retain possession of the church property there. These trustees, whose names are Jacob Howe, Noah Bowman, John Bechtel, J. H. Wismer and William Nichclison, refused to allow J. F. Durkee, the presiding elder, and W. A. Robins, the minister, to conduct services in the chapel. On going to law the radicals were upheld by Mr. Justice Street. Yesterday, however, the Court of Appeal reversed the judgment, and John Itter, John Hyde and Archibald Pollock, the new liberal trustees, were given possession of the building. This case was practically a test action regarding the ownership of all property in the province belonging to this body.

The court yesterday reserved judgment upon the motion to unseat Ald. Burgoyne of St. Catharines.

The Court of Appeal has allowed the defendant's appeal in the case of the Niagara Falls Park Commissioners v. Howard; a similar decision was granted in Stapleton v. Zimmerman.

The appeal of Osler v. Leeson from Mr. Justice MacMahon's judgment in favor of Becherer, Loos & Co. was allowed.

The Court of Appeal dismissed the appeal of A. E. and O. P. Page against the judgment in favor of the Attorney-General of Ontario, setting aside their title to Abino Point, on Lake Erie. The province thus wins the suft.

In the case of R. A., E. W. and C. S. Scarlett v. Joseph Nattress, over two mortgages, the defendant's appeal was dismissed.

General Sessions.

There was but one case before the court yesterday—Queen v. Mr. E. J. Green, Mrs. Green was charged with stealing some knives, forks, spoons and other articles from Mrs. Nancy Qualiff of Toronto Junction. Mrs. Qualiff bought some articles from Mrs. Green, and found among them some of her own goods. Mrs. Green blamed her husband, saying "that was how he lived." After a few minutes consultation, the jury brought in a verdict of "not guilty." Crown Attorney Dewart was for the Crown, and Mr. T. C. Robinette for the prisoner.

The grand jury has found a true bill against Mate Green, theft, and Amos Ferrier, seduction.
