Opening the House?

How the dust and dirt has crept in while you've been away on that vacation! Need a new broom or whisk or scrubbing brush?

It will pay you to get the best there is. You won't have to buy new ones next time if you ask your dealer for Boeckhs' Brooms, Brushes, Whisks. 36

All day long flags fley gaily over the white tented field, over firing mounds swarming with brilliant uniforms and white targets that sullenly fell back upon contact with bullets driven by cordite. All this galety was in keeping with the importance of the occasion, for the opening day was the best in the history of the O.R.A. Prominent Competitors.

The 300 competitors included not only the crack shots of the province, but marksmen like Capt. Dover of the 78th Batt., Nova Scotia: Sergt. Broadhurst of the Royal Scots; Gunner Miller of the 5th R.C.A. of British Columbia, and some 20 other heroes of Bisley fame. These international shots in their shell jackets were of course the cynosure of every eye and added immense colat to the scene.

A laughable discovery made towards the close of one match was that some of the marksmen were shooting with the lid of the "well" pulled out and resting against the shoulder to prevent the rifle from sliding. The World Talks to the Shooters,

The views of the following soldiers throw light upon the meet: Lieut.-Col. Delamere, the genial commander of the Q.O.R., and the day's executive officer, said: "The shooting done to-day is away shead of that of last year. Some of the credit must of course be faid to the introduction of the new rifle, but a great deal of ft is due to the increasing military enthusiasm of the country." Asked if the ammunition supplied was doing its work properly, Col. Delamere replied that he didn't know of a flaw.

"In my opinion," he continued, "the Camadian ammunition is better than the English. It is just as carefully made, and is far fresher. Only a short time ago the Canadian Government had to return to England a large consignment of cartridges that had not been properly capped. By some blunder they were returned here in the same state. The British Government, to set things right, made a rebate of a portion of their cost." The World Talks to the Shooters,

A criticism of Capt. Currie of the High-landers, that there was more "belly firing than would be indulged in active warfare," was not endorsed by Col. Delamere, who said he took Bistey matches as his prece-Broadhurst on the Shoots. Broadhurst on the Shoots.

Sergt. Broadhurst of Bisley and worldwide reputation spoke freely to The World.
He styled the shooting as "awfully good,"
and the ranges as "splendid," A drawbark, however, was the fact that the butts were not in a continuous line. He also wished that the triangular flags, which were no use in judging the wind, were replaced by streamers.

Capt. Dover, another shot with the glamor of the Bisley name, now walked up. Asked how Canadians compared with English shots, Capt. Dover replied: "They have at least 2000 crack shots in England to our 40, least 2000 crack shots in England to our 40, but we could select a party of 10 that could hold its own against the world."

Asked what he thought of the Boer marksmen, Sergt. Broadhurst replied:

"These Dutchmen live on the name they've got. I shot at Bisley against a Dutchman by the name of Van Mervor and beat him every time. He went to Pretoria every year and carried away the bonors from every Boer shooter that entered the lists against him."

referred in glowing terms to the day's success. Too much praise cannot be given to Lieut.-Col. Delamere and his able assistants. Among these are: Capt. A. D. Cartwright, with his Chesterfield address; Statistical Officer Lieut. E. P. McNeill, Range Officers Lieut. Col. White, Lieut. Col, McLaren, Majors Mutton, Mason and Manley, Capts.

Sea-Serpent Fiction.

Provincial Treasurer Harcourt was surprised that the Opposition leader should take up fithe time of the House by calling attention to such a jumble of inaccuracies to such sea-serpent fiction, which was generally about due in the month of August. The new contract, the public expected, of the Government should be more advantageous than the preceding one, and he vouchsafed that it would be. As to whether exorbitant prices had been paid only expert evidence could say, but he advised the other side not to place too much credence in newspaper inaccuracies about contractors getting rich.
