UP TO THE ATTORNEY-GENERAL

Etternal vigilance is the price of Toronto's retention of some of the most fundamental municipal rights.
It is a poor session of the Ontario legislature that does not develop an attempt to subject the city to the designs of franchise holding or franchise-seeking corporations.

These attempts have been resisted with varying success. Now, when other municipalities are waking up to the fact that they have a common interest with Toronto in the legislature, the corporations ingeniously shift the scene of their activity to the Dominion parliament.

The Toronto and Niagara Power Company was enfranchised by the Ontario government. Its next step was to proceed to Ottawa to have that franchise reinforced with powers that would place the people at its mercy.

Of course, the Ontario government can say it did not know that the original application of the Toronto and Niagara Power Company was loaded.
It did not know that the company would give it the double shuffle. But if the Ontario government was ignorant, it was criminally ignorant. The trick the company has played is not entirely new, and it might fairly have been anticipated by the government which entrenched the company at Niagara Falls.

No effort was made to confine the dealings of the company to the Ontario legislature. Neither was any other precaution taken to ensure the people of Ontario against excessive rates, discrimination, or violation of municipal rights. A government which neglected all these opportunities cannot plead ignorance in extenuation of its failure to make the Toronto and Niagara Power Company subject to the Ontario legislature and no other power.

But, call it blunder or criminal carelessness, the obligation now placed upon the Ontario government cannot be repudiated. The Dominion parliament is to be asked to further enhance the powers and privileges of the Toronto and Niagara Power Company. Only a fraction of the people's representatives at Ottawa are interested in the issue which threatens the municipal rights of Toronto and other municipalities. That is the reason the company is going to Ottawa.
The members for Victoria, B.C., and the members for Prince Edward Island will have equal voice with the members from Ontario in determining a question which involves municipal rights in this province alone.

The power of a lobby operating in such an area of indifference may well alarm Toronto and other Ontario municipalities, which are threatened with extortionate rates and the appopropriation of their streets by the Toronto and Niagara Power Company.
Did the British North America Act ever contemplate the determination of such an issue by the Dominion parliament? Of course it did not, and some weighty legal opinion will have to be advanced to sustain the absurd theory that any company, incorporated "for the general advantage of Canada," can drive a coach and four through rights definitely and specifically delegated to the municipalities.

Yet, while there is no certainty that the Dominion parliament can invest a company with such powers, there is the danger. The Ontario government, by failing to keep the To-
within the scope of its authority, has brought that danger upon us. It is therefore of the Ontario government, therefore, to do its utmost to recover the ground it has lost.

The Globe gallantly declares that public opinion will back the Mayor and Council of Toronto in endeavoring to have the charter amended.
Why should the Mayor and Council be required to battle for rights which have been sacrificed by the Ontario government? The government blun-dered or criminally neglected an obvious duty. Let it now exert itself to make good that blunder or criminal negligence. Representations from the Attorney-General of Ontario to the Dominion parliament would go a long way to impress that body with the duty of restricting the powers of the Toronto and Niagara Power Company. Perhaps The Globe, which is urging on the Mayor and Council, will also apply a little urging to Attorney-General Gibson.

Members of the Ontario government do not take kindly to enquiries made by representatives of The World. A Globe representative might encounter less hostility, and the organ of the Ontario government will surely endeavor to learn whether the Attorney-General will proceed to Ottawa to appeal for justice to the municipalities whose interests he has helped to sacrifice.

MR. WHITNEY ON NIAGARA POWER.

At Newmarket Mr. Whitney said that as the people of the Province had never hesitated to spend their money for the development of New Ontario, they would be willing to spend their share for utilizing the water power at Niagara Falls. He thinks the government should take up the question, consult experts on it, and decide whether it would be the better plan for the government to establish a plant at Niagara Falls and furnish power to the municipalities, or appoint commissioners and provide for a union of municipalities. In any case the matter must be taken up as a government question.

One of two things Mr. Whitney ought to guard against. The enemies of public ownership may seize upon the idea of an inquiry by experts and make it an excuse for delay. There is no need to consult experts in order to decide upon a policy. It is not an engineering question, but a political question.
Whatever policy may be decided upon, it is necessary to exercise vigilance every moment, and to assert the authority of the government and legislature over the whole matter. Every franchise already granted should be subjected to strict supervision, and its rates and charges should be under strict control.
Government responsibility is the key to the situation, and in emphasizing this point Mr. Whitney is on the right line.

PROVINCIAL RIGHTS.

Who is taking care of all the good old Liberal principles in these days? Mr.
Munn will tell you what has become of the Liberal principle of free speech and the right of every citizen to advocate his ideas and to have them carried out by appealing to the electors. He is choked off and brutally assaulted, and the Premier of Ontario has not a word to say in vindication of the liberties about which so many platitudes have been talked.

That is the essence of the doctrine of responsible government, for which so many sacrifices were made in former times, and which Liberal leaders today invoke to stimulate the flagging zeal of their supporters? What is the practical benefit to the people of Ontario?
Once it represented the opposition of the people to the tyranny of an imported governor. What is it now doing to protect the people from the far more formidable and insidious tyranny of corporate and moneyed interests? Responsible instead of being jealously guarded is eagerly disclaimed. Responsible Ministers of the crown, that is, of the people, shelter themselves behind the votes of parliamentary committees. Great public interests, that ought to be debated with all the force and skill that parliament can command, are frittered away by private bills, for which nobody is responsible.

Questions on which governments ought to be ready to stand or fall are made open questions, on which neither the responsibility of the government, nor the responsibility of the leader of the opposition, nor the responsibility of either party can be invoked for the protection of the people.

What has become of the Liberal doctrine of provincial rights? Mowat and his colleagues made that a great issue rallied their followers by that cry, and won victories of which their successors boast to-day. What do these boasts mean? How are provincial rights being guarded to-day by the Ontario government, or by the Liberals in the Dominion parliament? The Toronto and Niagara Power Company is able to obtain from the Dominion government a private act, a declaration that its works are "for the general advantage of Canada." The words tell a lie. There is not the smallest ground for the pretence that the works are other than local and provincial. The words were inserted with the object of enabling the company to evade provincial rights and to override the rights of municipalities. "The general advantage of Canada" is in no way involved in the question. The intention was to further the advantage of certain wealthy men and corporations at the expense of the community. Lawyers may differ as to the effect of the declaration.
But there can be no difference of opinion as to this, that it ought never to have been inserted at all. There was no public necessity for it; it could serve no purpose, except a wrong purpose, no interest except a private interest.

This was a time, not to mouth about provincial rights, but to put the doctrine of practical value to the people of Ontario; to give the people the real benefit of the victory which now serves only to embellish the campaign literature of the Liberal party. Not a single Liberal stood up in defence of the rights of the province, and in a House in which the Liberals had a large majority, an amendment intended to safeguard the rights of the people was voted down by four to one. No protest came from the Ontario government and legislature. It is none of their business, it seems, to uphold the rights which they use as perorations for their speeches.

PUBLIC SERVICE AND BIGGNESS.

Where are the C.P.R.'s acquisitions to end? Haven't they got enough already, and haven't they got enough of business on their hands to attend to?
They span a continent, they have a fleet on the Pacific, they are adding a new fleet on the Atlantic, and they are doing it, we believe, on lines which will create, or tend to create, a monopoly in the ocean-carrying trade to and from Canada. How much bigger does this big corporation wish to become?

If we were asked our advice we would say that the most pressing need of the Canadian Pacific to-day is to develop its railway facilities in Canada.
The road needs double-tracking, it needs to do away with its grades, it needs all the aid of its curves, it needs all the
