Three down and one to go was Simpson Rennie's dilemma in his club game yesterday afternoon at the Granite Rink against. Hugh Munro's redoubtable quartet, that was strengthened by A. D. Parker handling the broom. Alex. Mackie was playing second stone, and His Worship Mayor Oliver, leading, had the distance down to perfection. After losing four one's, Parker's men steadied down and soon had the score 8 to 4. They netted two in the eleventh, when the total was 7 to 10. Rennie had stones everywhere in the tweifth to one lone third for the enemy, and a shot aplece left. Parker tried to draw, and instead raised a guard to his only stone, and the last rock was left employed.

They keep panning the picture feature of the Jeff-Jack fight. It does not follow, says one, that the results of these picture fights are a frame-up, because it is accepted as true that as soon as the "picture taking time limit" in a fight has elapsed the pugilists always go in to win on the level, in the opinion of followers of glove contests it would be a good thing for the game if the picture machine did not enter in fight arrangements.

These averages show that last season Joe McGlnnity, he of the dead wing and the broken-down physique, pitched 56 games. Of these 45 were to a finish, 19 being parts of battles. Of the 45 full games, Uncie Joe won about 30. He pitched more ball than anyone in the National or American Leagues.
