CITY NOT TO INTERFERE IN GRAND TRUNK STRIKE

Controllers Think It's Up to Hon. Mackenzie King—New Training For Firemen.

The city will give Hon. Mackenzie King, minister of labor, an opportunity to settle the Grand Trunk strike before asking for the appointment of another conciliation board.

It was thus that the board of control decided yesterday, altho Controller Church was urgent that the Dominion Government be requested to appoint another board under the Mulock act. He said leading manufacturers had told him they would have to close down within a month if the company and men didn't come to terms.

Mayor Geary contended that the Lemieux act, coming after the Mulock act, practically made the former obsolete, and Controller Ward asserted that Hon. Mr. King should not be interfered with in his honest efforts to mediate.

Controller Church explained that he didn't suggest direct interference under the Mulock act, but that a special committee, with Judge Mabee as chairman, should be created to bring about conciliatory measures. The board was, however, for a "sit tight" policy.

A deputation representing the strikers asked permission to use St. Andrew's Hall, Esther-street, as a place for holding committee meetings. This was acceded to, and the property commissioner will fix the terms.

City Employes Students.

City Engineer Rust, replying to Controller Foster's query, said that his department employed twelve faculty of applied science students as draftsmen, inspectors, chainmen, etc. The controller complained that these "boys" received $3.50 a day and kept out of civic employment men with families to support. Mr. Rust will be asked his reasons.

The Canada Foundry was the sole tenderer for laying a 500-foot extension to the water intake pipe, as ordered by council. The price named was $35,000, whereas the works department's estimate of the cost was only $20,000. The offer was referred to the city engineer.

Teach Firemen First Aid.

A course of lectures to captains in the fire department on first aid to the injured was begun at Lombard-street hall by Medical Health Officer Sheard yesterday. The use of bandages, splints and other equipment was explained to the captains, who, after being sufficiently posted, will, in turn, instruct the men. The lack of this kind of training heretofore has been a serious handicap in such emergency cases as have arisen.

Experiments are also being tried with smoke protectors. The apparatus consists of a helmet and a cylinder attached to the wearer's side. Air is pumped into the protector with a hand pump until a pressure of about 200 pounds is reached. An indicator shows the amount of air consumed, and when the pressure drops to about ten pounds, it is a warning to the fireman that he had better seek the outer air and have his airtight headgear removed.

Chief Thompson says the device will be used chiefly in locating fires in smoky cellars, and that, if found satisfactory, a number will be ordered.

In connection with the "first aid" service, a medicine chest containing splints, bandages, restoratives, etc., will be carried on each hook and ladder truck.

May Prosecute Bakers.

Dr. Sheard is considering taking legal action against two bakeries for turning out loaves of bread less than 12 ounces in weight. The Nickle act says that small loaves must not exceed 12 ounces in weight, but the bakers hold that this does not prevent them baking bread at any weight under 12 ounces. The court will probably be called upon to decide the point.

Provincial Secretary Hanna was yesterday waited upon by Controller Spence, Alderman O'Neil, chairman of the property committee, and Property Commissioner Harris. They indulged in an informal discussion on the advantages of industrial farms over prisons.

Mr. Harris is looking for a site for a 400-acre farm for inebriates, as ordered by the council some weeks ago.

The undertakers are complaining that the city doesn't pay enough for the burial of indigent persons, the rates being $6 for an adult and $5 for a child. The undertakers want the rates raised to $12 and $7, respectively.

A Striker in Court.

Raymond Chalmers, a G. T. R. trainman, now on strike, appeared in police court yesterday morning charged with being disorderly at a band concert at Bellwoods Park Wednesday night. The magistrate asked him if he would go to work, and he replied that he was drawing strike pay and did not want to bar himself from this by taking any other job. He was allowed to depart, with a warning to keep out of mischief even tho idle.
