Buys an English Melton Overcoat

Suitable for a Man or a Young Man Who Favors the Slip-On, Chesterfield or Box Back Models

English light, medium and dark grey wool and cotton Melton Cloth such as this makes one of the best of overcoating materials because it is closely woven, and offers a stubborn resistance to weather and wear, and its shape-retaining qualities are excellent. These are the reasons for melton overcoats being so popular, and consequently are of exceptional value at $30.00. In this assortment are semi-fitting Chesterfield models with 3-button fly fronts, notched collars, regular pockets and either self or velveteen collars. Then, there are easy-fitting box-back models with button-through fly fronts and the easy slip-on style, which is double-breasted and has convertible storm collar; linings consist of sericveable twill; light, medium and dark grey wool and cotton melton. DIES SUDDENLY died immediately. He had not been seriously ill at all, and his death came without warning.

Prominent Young Business Man Falls Dead While

Norman Wylie was the son of the late R. J. Wylie of Toronto, who predeceased him about a year ago. He was educated at the Toronto public schools. In 1911 he married Mary Rosamond, only daughter of, F. F. Telfer, at that time residing in Collingwood, but now of Toronto. After graduating from the public schools, he entered the business of Rice, Lewis and Sons, where he learned the hardware business and became later on a very successful salesman. Fifteen years ago he accepted the position of sales manager for Sheet Metal Products Company, which position he left about a year ago to become associated with the Consumers' Enamelling and Stamping Company.

An Active Anglican.

In religion Mr. Wylie was an Anglican, having been a very active member and sidesman of St. Paul's Church for many years. He was a Mason and member of the Zetland Lodge. He was also a member of the Rosdale Golf Club, the National Club and the Canadian Club.

Mr. Wylie leaves, besides his widow, two children, Eleanor, aged seven, and Rosamond, aged three.

He was very popular and his genial and amiable disposition had won him a large circle of friends. His business ability was well recognized and he was just in the prime of a successful business career when he was suddenly called away.

The funeral will take place from the residence, 18 Roxborough drive, to Mount Pleasant Cemetery today (Saturday), at 2.30 p.m. The services will be conducted by the Rev. Dr. Cody.
