

subscribers, and from the general public on Dispensary Sunday. They regret to say that the first are decreasing in number in consequence of deaths, removals or inability, and the last from the gradual non-observance of the special object of the day named, or failure in several churches to make any collection, so that the moral and commercial effect of unanimity and liberality is being lost sight of, and the sustentation of this Public Charity with its increasing needs endangered.

GRATEFUL ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

are tendered to all those who so cheerfully and regularly respond to the calls made upon them in money, publications, prayers or co-operation in word or work on behalf of the Institution and its benevolent objects.
