HARRIS' STRATEGY IN FINAL WORLD SERIES GAME REVEALED BY FRIEND

Inside Story of Manipulation of Pitchers Shows Nice Headwork.

New York, Nov. 11.—The psychology employed by Manager Stanley Harris of the Washington Americans in handling his pitchers in the final game of the 1924 World Series, which has been the subject of much speculation ever since, was revealed today by a member of the Washington team close to Harris.

The number of innings each one of the four pitchers who participated in the game was to work, and the exact time of their entrance and departure, was outlined by Harris before the teams took the field, according to the informant. And this schedule was to be the letter except for two circumstances, one of which was the fact that the game went into extra innings.

The other exception was in the case of "Curley" Ogden, the young pitcher, who was started on the mound for the Senators. According to Harris' plans, Ogden was to pitch to but one man, Lindstrom, and then be relegated to the bench, but Ogden, anxious to make good, crossed his manager by fanning Lindstrom, thereby giving Harris no legitimate excuse for yanking him.

Changes Plan.

According to the man who tells the story, Harris, after Lindstrom had been fanned, walked to the mound to consult Ogden.

"My arm is going fine and my curve ball has got the old hop," pleaded Ogden to Harris. "Please let me stay in."

"I won't take you out now," said Harris, "but the minute you get into trouble, out you go."

Frisch, the next man to face Ogden, walked, and without even a glance at Harris, Ogden walked, too. George McGraw, veteran left hander, took his place on the mound, there to stay until McGraw shifted his team and took out his left-handed hitters.

It was Bill Terry, Giant first baseman, who threw the ball into Harris' hands and caused him to resort to this strategy to get him out of the way. And fans who followed the fortunes of the teams in that last game, will remember that the minute McGraw went in a pinch hitter, to swing for Terry, Harris switched with him and dispatched McGraw to the mound. The latter was to stay until the ninth, when Johnson, with orders to put everything he had into every pitch, was to come in when the sun had set and the darkness made his fast one even more deceptive.

And this strategy worked out perfectly. McGraw shifted his team to combat Morange and Terry, ineligible to return.

SEVERAL CLUBS AFTER SHOCKER

Star Pitcher of St. Louis Club on the Baseball Market.

St. Louis, Nov. 11.—Urban Shocker, generally considered the smartest pitcher in the American League, is said to be on the market.

Report has it that the St. Louis Browns would listen to any trade talk that would give that club anything like a fifty-fifty break.

Shocker, it will be remembered, did not sign with the Browns until just before the opening of the season. He had asked Judge Landis to declare him a free agent, because he had been heavily fined for insisting on taking his wife on an eastern trip of the club.

No doubt Shocker did not have his heart in his work last year because of this trouble. The season's record would make it seem that way.

Shocker, it is said, would like to play for his old manager, Lee Fohl. No doubt George Sisler would listen to a trade that would give him Howard Ehmke. It is doubtful if he would be interested in any one else on the Red Sox club.

Several other American League clubs no doubt will try to outbid Boston if Shocker is placed on the market.

McInnis and Langford scored the two tries in the first, which were converted by Jakenman. McInnis scored the try in the second and Jakenman converted.

MURULLO TO MEET PAUL BERLENBACH

Will be the Principals in a Feature Bout in New York.

New York, Nov. 11.—In a week crowded with promising boxing matches, local fight followers are able to look forward to one outstanding contest which promises plenty of action. Paul Berlenbach, the hard-hitting Astoria light-heavyweight, is scheduled for a twelve-round battle against Young Marullo, New Orleans brawler, as the feature event on Friday night's card at Madison Square Garden.

Matchmaker Frank Plourney now is working on plans for the semi-final and preliminaries, and expects, with the card he contemplates, to attract to the Garden the arena's first crowded house of the season.

Berlenbach and Marullo are expected to furnish an exciting encounter. Of Berlenbach little need be said. He is well known here. He has established himself as one of the hardest hitting boxers yet developed in the local district and he is also one of the strongest drawing cards local promoters ever have signed.

Marullo, however, is little known here save to those who witnessed his introductory battle, the encounter in which he so handily lattered the game Billy Britton. Known as the Kansas cyclone, Britton, despite his greatest efforts, did little against the punishing blows of Marullo in a bout which stamped the Crescent City lad as a promising prospect to do battle with Berlenbach.

Marullo took on the Britton bout several weeks ago on short notice. He suffered an injury to his right hand in the second round, which interfered noticeably with his boxing. Yet, despite the lack of proper training and the handicap of his injured hand, Marullo, as he administered a severe beating to Britton, went about his work in a manner which brought him into instant favor with those who saw the match. Local followers of boxing probably will send the Astoria lad into the ring a favorite to beat Marullo, but the New Orleans boxer will have plenty of support among the so-called wise ones, some of whom have predicted a knockout victory for the New Orleans boxer.

WHO'S FASTEST STROKE MAKER ON GOLF LINKS

Boston, Nov. 11.—Cyril Walker, open golf champion, is generally classified as the swiftest golfer in the world.

The title of fastest golfer is in dispute. Many claim George Duncan of England is the quickest stroke-maker in the game. Duncan wastes no time on waggles or waggles. His procedure consists in stepping up to the ball and swinging it pronto.

Jack Sweetser, former amateur champion, is one of the fastest playing stars in this country.

W. Woody Platt, the Philadelphia amateur, is another speed merchant on the links.

TROJANS WIN

In the soccer game on the Barrack Green yesterday afternoon the Trojans won from St. Andrews by a score of 4 to 2. It was the first defeat that the St. Andrews team had met with in two seasons. Both teams were short a few players but the game was a fast one and there were many good plays. The scorers were, for the Trojans, Dobbleson, two, and Ross and Evans, one each; for St. Andrews, Neil and Burton.

FUENTE TO BOX MCGUIRE

Los Angeles, Nov. 10.—Tony Fuente, Mexican heavyweight, whose repeated knockouts of his opponents during the past two months have added zest to the "heavy" boxing game in the west, will meet Mike McGuire, light-heavyweight champion, Feb. 22, in the American Legion Stadium at Culver City, near here, according to announcement today by Fred Winsor, Fuente's manager.

WALKER TO MEET OHARA

Chicago, Nov. 10.—Joey O'Hara, of Port Dodge, Iowa, was matched tonight to box Mickey Walker, world's welterweight champion in a ten round contest in Milwaukee, on Nov. 24. O'Hara held Ted Moore, British welterweight to a draw here last week in a ten round match.

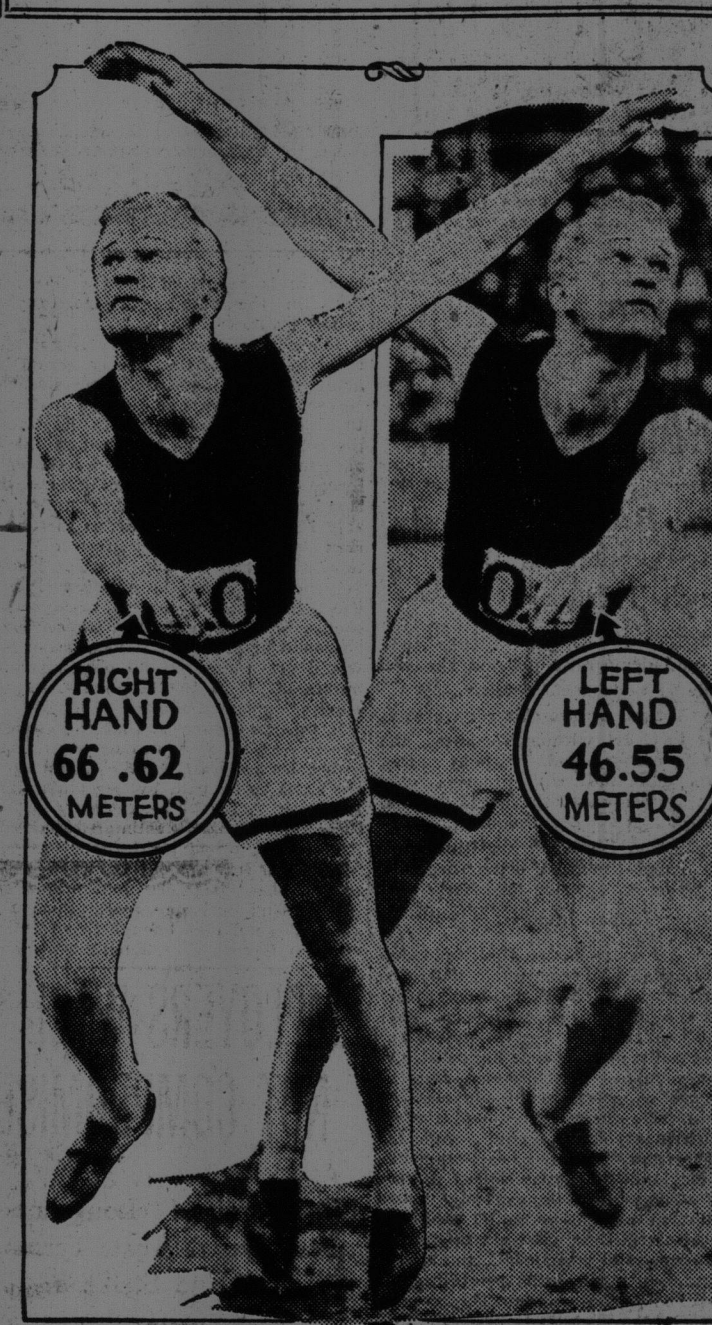

GENE TUNNEY WINS

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 11.—Gene Tunney, light heavyweight champion, knocked out Buddy McHale of St. Louis, in the second round of a scheduled eight-round bout here last night.

Rome had a law to limit the price of women's dresses two centuries before the beginning of the Christian era.

Right Arm 800 Inches Stronger

Javelin Throwing Champion Falls That Much Shy of World Mark in Throw With Left Arm

(By Joe Williams.)

Gunnar Lindstrom of Sweden has just broken the world record for throwing the javelin, with a mark of 66.2 meters. The old record was 66.0 meters, held by John Myrva of Finland. Myrva won the Olympic championship last July. Lindstrom was second in the event.

A javelin is a long steel-tipped spear and is thrown with a twisting arm movement somewhat after the manner of a ball thrown from the outfield. For years the Swedes and the Finns have monopolized top honors in the event. Myrva's old mark was made five years ago. Until Lindstrom came along Myrva was considered the wonder man of the spear. The Ty Cobb of that sport.

Lindstrom is probably even more remarkable than the old champion. The Swede is ambidextrous. On the same day he set a new world record with his right hand he flung the spear 46.55 with his left, a two-handed aggregate of 112.75 meters.

This indicates, among other things, that a man trained for the purpose has nearly 800 inches more throwing power in his right arm than his left. Lindstrom hurled the lance more than 20 meters farther with his right. A meter is a fraction more than 39 inches.

What would the ambidextrous Swede do in this country as a baseball pitcher or a forward passer on the gridiron? What would be the effect on a batter facing a pitcher capable of throwing a ball with equal power with either hand, and not knowing in advance which delivery to expect? A trifle bewildering at best.

There have been ambidextrous pitchers in baseball, but none of them ever made any marked progress. It seems to be no trick at all for a batter to change from right to left, as Frankie Frisch of the Giants does, for example, but it's something else again when the pitcher does it.

Of even greater rarity is the ambidextrous golfer. We have seen Joe Kirkwood play several trick shots left-handed, but the records fail to disclose any top ranking player who was inherently gifted, with either hand. Whether this could be turned into an advantage is a problem. Generally a golfer is reluctant to try anything different if he is going well, and when adversity does suggest that he make a change he promptly proceeds to go wrong. So maybe that's why we have no right and left-handed swingers.

PRINCETON WINS BY RECORD SCORE

Crushes Harvard by Score of 34-0—Most Decisive Victory.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 11.—The team that won't be beaten can't be beaten, and last Saturday it wasn't. For a great Princeton eleven, before 85,000 persons at Soldier's Field gave Harvard the most smashing defeat that the Crimson has ever suffered at the hands of the Tigers.

As the shadows crept lengthened and the sun went down, so did Harvard go down—down to an inglorious 34-0 beating, without parallel in the 47 years of Princeton-Harvard football, down to a decisive, overwhelming defeat that represents about the most amazing upset of the current football campaign.

No, there was no alibi and could be no alibi for this resounding defeat. Princeton had everything, Harvard had nothing but a stout heart. Princeton had its glorious hour of triumph, Harvard had only the after of a notable defeat to mourn over.

REES ENGLISH JOCKEY SETS RECORD FOR WINNING MOUNTS

When F. B. Rees rode May King to victory in the Maiden Hurdle at the Ludlow race course, England, recently, he established a record for the number of winning mounts under National Hunt rules for one year in that country, his mount being his seventy-ninth success. Previously the record was held by the brothers Jack and Ivor Anthony, who were tied at seventy-eight winners.

TROJANS BEATEN BY U. N. B., 8-3

Locals' Only Score was Penalty Goal by Eric Snow.

Trojans closed out a disastrous rugby season when they bowed to the University of New Brunswick fifteen, Monday afternoon, 8 to 3. The only score the locals made was a goal, penalty kick by Eric Snow. That the collegians, worn and tired from contests on Thursday and Saturday, plus a long train ride, were able to beat the hunky local crew speaks extremely well for the power of the university team. Half time score was 3 all, but early in the second half, Paul Fraser went over for a try, which he easily converted. U. N. B. touched for safety five times during the game. The visitors protested Dr. D. C. Malcolm as referee and Cecil West handled the game.

The lineups follow:

Trojans	U. N. B.
B. Jones	Fullback Greig
Rayley	Three-quarters McCaffrey
Humphrey	McCahey

BIGGEST SALE IN HISTORY OF TURF

Stud and Racing Stock Will Go Under the Auctioneer's Hammer.

New York, Nov. 11.—Edward F. Simms is to discontinue his stud at the beautiful Xalapa Farm, the famous nursery of thoroughbreds in Bourbon County, Ky., it was announced here. Mr. Simms has authorized the Fasig-Tipton Company to sell all of his stallions, brood mares and foals of 1924, together with the Xalapa racing stable and the horses that have been raced in the name of the Lexington stable. There will be disposed of by public auction in the Squadron Armory in this city on the evenings of Dec. 10 and 11.

This will be one of the most important dispersal sales in the history of the turf in this country. Not since the

FRENCH PUZZLED OVER BALL GAME

Wondered Why Batters Missed Ball and Fielders Did Not.

Paris, Nov. 11.—More or less 6,000 French spectators, more or less bored, although somewhat curious, were introduced to baseball, when the New York Giants defeated the Chicago White Sox, 8 to 0, in an exhibition game at the Olympic Stadium.

There were some signs of interest when the Giants tallied six runs in the seventh and single runs in the following two innings. But the French seemed rather puzzled to know what it was all about. They expressed some surprise when hot liners or blazing grounders were gathered in and shot to first, but it all looked so easy that they soon took good work for granted.

The American rooters—there were a present—voiced their disappointment at intervals, for they found the game slow, with few flashes of big league form displayed. Hughey Jennings, jumping up and down on the coaching line, said:

"This is like a funeral."

When Heine Groh stopped a hot liner from the bat of Dave Bancroft the French fans arose from their feet and asked:

"Why did he stop it?"

One Frenchman remarked to another: "Why, we're not so speedy as association football."

"Why doesn't he hit it?" asked the French spectators when the batsmen fanned. They wondered why the Giants and Sox, who they had heard received more pay than the President of France, couldn't hit a ball when it was thrown to them.

A diagram and technical explanation of the game of baseball, perfectly clear to anyone who already knew something of it, was distributed in circular form. But the French could not read it. They couldn't see any difference between a high fly and a foul tip or a homer. "Why doesn't he foul it?" they said to each other when a batter went out on a fly. One of them suggested that Kamm, the Chicago third baseman, ought to have a wire netting between his legs when he muffed a couple of fast ones.

One of the mysteries to the French "enthusiasts" was why the umpire made strange motions. A few of the well informed natives asked why there was no suggestion of killing the umpire, as they had often read was always made at baseball games in the United States.

The French were entirely polite, but as Manager John McGraw said: "We can never put it over on them here."

HALIFAX BOXER FAILS TO APPEAR

Quebec, Nov. 10.—A fiasco was provided tonight at the Club Athletique St. Sauveur, when Jimmy Kelly, of Halifax, who was scheduled to meet Kid Mitchell, of this city, in the final of a card of bouts, failed to put in an appearance, although he was in town this afternoon.

A. Gauthier took his place in what was announced to be a 10-round exhibition, but Mitchell stopped his man in the first round. The other scraps were between local boys.

Essex Roads Club, put up a new tricycle mark of 4:57:55, which not only beat the previous best of 5:31:09, set up in 1911 by H. G. Cook, but also lowered the paced bicycle record of 5:15:27, made by F. T. Biddle as far back as 1895.
