The undersigned begs respectfully to in-

Poetry.

[From The Young Ladies Journal.]
A Woman's Answer to a Man's Question.

Do you know you have asked me for the costliest thing
Ever made by the Hand Above?
A woman's heart and a woman's life—
And a woman's wonderful love?

Do you know you have asked for this priceless thing
As a child might ask for a toy?
Demanding what others had died to win,
With the reckless dash of a boy?

You have written my lesson of duty out—
Man-like you have questioned me—
Now stand at the bar of my woman's soul,
Until I have questioned thee.

You require my mutton shall always be hot Your socks and your shirt be white;
Require your heart to be true as God's Stars.

And pure as His heaven your soul.
You require a cook for your mutton and beef,
I require a far greater thing:
A samstress you're wanting for socks and for shirt,
I look for a man and a king—
A king for the beautiful realm called home,
And a man that the Maker God Shall look upon as He did on His first,
And say "It is very good."

I am fair and young, but the rose will fade
From my soft young cheeks one day—
Will you love me then "mid the falling leaves,
As you did 'mid the blooms of May?"

Is your heart an ocean so strong and deep
I may launch my all on its tide?
A loving woman finds weak or woe
On the day she is made a bride.

I require all things that are grand and true.
All things that a man should be;
If you give him, I would take my life
To be all you demand of me.

If you cannot be this—so laudless and cool
I may hire, and little to pay;
But a woman's heart and a woman's life,
Are not to be won that way.

Miscellaneous.

The Russian Losses.

This is without doubt the most disastrous campaign the Russian army has ever suffered. The military correspondent of the London Times writes is none other than Sir Henry M. Havelock, the gallant son of his father, estimates their losses as follows: Before their passage of the Danube, 7, 000,000 in the hospitals, and 5, 000,000 were sent back to Russia. The crossing of the Danube, with the subsequent combats at Matshin and Baladagh, cost 1,200 men; Zimmernan lost 1,000 in the Dobrudsch, and in-valued 8,000 to Russia; the repulsed passage from Oltenitz and Glumunda cost 2,000; Simutia and Stotova, 1, 400; the affair at Riala, 1,500; those of Rastchun and Kasgrad, 3,000; the march to Timova and the crossing of the Balkan, 2,000; Gorki's retreat, 7,800; the taking of Nikopolis, 2,400;
the first battle of Pleyna, 5,000; the second 11,000; their repulse from 10,000 sick have been sent to Russia from the main army of the Danube, and this is record of the deaths in the hospitals, not of the men who fell at the capture of Lovichse on the 5th September, nor in the defects and during the disastrous retreats at Karassashan and from the Kara-Lom. In short, the total as known considerable exceeds 70,000 men, and as a German officer with the imperial headquarters remarked
"the Russians, notwithstanding a single important victory, have already lost the effective of two entire army corps."

But this is not all. Their financial standing has been ruined for at least five years to
