LONDON, Feb. 12.—The general feeling of satisfaction aroused in Great Britain by the friendly tone which has characterized recent German discussions of naval affairs was expressed by Thomas J. MacNamara, Parliamentary Secretary to the British Admiralty, speaking on behalf of Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, yesterday.

The question was brought up by an inquiry addressed to the First Lord in the House of Commons as to the recent statement of Admiral Von Tirpitz, German Minister of Marine, in the Imperial Parliament at Berlin.

Mr. MacNamara did not pursue the subject, saying he preferred to wait for the introduction of the naval estimates before dealing more fully with the matter.

BATTLE IN CAPITAL

Heart of Mexico City Is Field of Big Gun Operations.

REBELS ARE HOLDING OUT

Attack of Madero's Forces Fails To Shake the Position of the Insurrecto Troops Under General Diaz and Day of Fierce Fighting Finds His Position Still Unshaken—Mediation Is Refused.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 12.—In spite of the friendly offer of Francisco De La Barra, the former Provisional President, to act as mediator, and over the protest of the diplomatic representatives of the foreign powers, President Madero ordered an attack on Gen. Felix Diaz and his forces, even though he knew that this would entail a terrific bombardment of the capital.

The federal attack on the rebels fortified in and around the arsenal began at 10.15 o'clock in the morning, and late in the afternoon no material advantage had been gained by either side. It appeared, however, that the rebels, who were holding slightly improved positions, were conserving their fire. Many assaults against them had been repulsed.

The struggle of Diaz to overthrow the power of President Madero resulted in the most remarkable scene ever witnessed on the western continent. Street fighting has occurred in Mexico in times past, but a battle in which the contending forces employed heavy artillery at a range frequently of less than half a mile in a densely populated city was a new and startling spectacle.

The heaviest line of fire was along Balderas street, the cannon of the opposing forces shooting across only four blocks pointblank. The federals at the north end of the line used a battery of guns brought from Cuernavaca.

The extremities of the dueling ground were defended by detachments of infantry and machine guns, whose rain of bullets swept the intervening space, with death to any exposed creature.

The assault against the rebel positions in this avenue was finally abandoned. What undoubtedly contributed greatly to the rebels' ability to resist this movement was the position of the Young Men's Christian Association building, a seven-story structure, less than two blocks from the arsenal.

The Government mobilized its forces in the Alameda, the great central square of the city, but every approach to the streets leading to the arsenal was covered by the rebel guns. At every angle field guns were stationed, which gave promise of a heavy artillery duel. Both sides virtually were ready when the firing began, but it is almost certain that the first shots which precipitated the general fighting were accidental.

A group of persons insisted upon crossing a street and a small detachment of federals fired. A machine gun sprang into action and the battle was on.

A large contingent of rurales did excellent work moving ammunition and participated in one disastrous charge prior to two o'clock. Gen. Huerta had ordered a flanking movement down Bucareli street, the part of the rurales being to cover the placing of a battery of guns. The rurales moved across an intersecting street, but before the guns could be run into position a heavy rifle fire swept through their ranks, and they fell back in disorder. The artillery failed to hold its position.

ROSA SARTO DEAD. Pope's Favorite Sister Dies—Pontiff Grief-Stricken.

ROME, Feb. 12.—The death of Rosa Sarto, the sister of the Pope, although she did not know how to read, she said: "Our parents only thought to make Joseph study. If their meagre means had been divided between the whole family education, Joseph wouldn't now be the Pope."

For several months paralysis prevented Rosa from walking. Thus the pontiff was unable to see her, owing to his voluntary imprisonment in the Vatican. This has been the keenest sorrow of the Pope.

CATHOLIC CHURCH OBTAINS BEQUEST. WILLED BY SARNIA LADY FOR SUPPORT OF FOREIGN MISSIONS—COSTS TO COME OUT OF FUNDS.

Toronto, Feb. 12.—According to a finding by Mr. Justice Middleton the Roman Catholic church is to receive the bequest of Mrs. Johanna Upton, of Sarnia, who left the residue of her estate to the support of "foreign missions in connection with the Roman Catholic church in Canada." It was at first argued that this church, being a world wide organization with no foreign missions here, the instructions could not be carried out. His Lordship, however, does not agree with this view.

POSTMEN BURNED. Suffragettes Put Dangerous Chemicals In Letters.

DUNDEE, Scotland, Feb. 6.—Five postmen were burned last evening, by the combustion of chemicals contained in letters. One of the postmen returning from his evening collection of mail from the public letter boxes emptied his bag on the sorting table at the postoffice. The contents instantly burst into flames.

A large number of these envelopes contained tubes of phosphorus and other highly inflammable chemicals. They were addressed to Premier Asquith, and the sheets of paper within were inscribed "Justice for Women."

Leader Gets Two Weeks. LONDON, Feb. 6.—Sylvia Pankhurst, one of the militant suffragette leaders, was sentenced to two weeks imprisonment or a fine of $10 by the magistrate sitting at Bow street police court yesterday, for participating in the raid on the House of Commons together with nineteen other women under the leadership of "General" Mrs. Flora Drummond on Jan. 28.

On that occasion the women tried to force their way into Parliament to obtain an interview with David Lloyd-George, Chancellor of the Exchequer, and they were arrested and charged with resisting the police.

This is probably correct, as the leaders of the militants have become tired of jail, and their fines are now invariably paid within a few hours of their imposition.

Special but unostentatious precautions are being taken to prevent any untoward happening at Buckingham Palace through the action of the militant suffragettes. If anything is attempted by them there, their reception is likely to be particularly warm.

FIGHT TUBERCULOSIS. Millions of leaflets are being circulated among the people of the Empire, informing the masses how to guard against Tuberculosis, of which 100,000 Germans die every year. The time is fast approaching when this disease will be treated like diphtheria and smallpox—the patient being isolated and removed from contact with others.

Meantime it is to be hoped the masses will learn the all-important lesson of guarding against Nerviline Will Assist.

When your throat tickles, your chest feels tight and sore, when you sneeze and feel cold shivers up your back—that should be your warning.

The following treatment is known to be very efficient: Give the chest and throat a vigorous hand-rubbing with Nerviline, and take twenty drops of Nerviline in hot, sweetened water. If there is any hoarseness or cough, gargle well with Nerviline and put a Nerviline Porous Plaster over the chest. By following this advice you can keep clear of colds, pneumonia, bronchitis, and preserve uniform good health. This is worth cutting out and preserving.

BRITAIN IS STIRRED

South Pole Tragedy Has Evoked a Wave of Sorrow.

PENSION FOR MRS. SCOTT

Admiralty Takes First Step by Providing £200 a Year For Explorer's Widow—Government's Plans Not Yet Known But Fund May Be Started—Survivors of Party Are Well and Starting Home.

LONDON, Feb. 12.—The tragedy which overtook Captain R. F. Scott and his four companions in the wastes of the Antarctic ice fields continues to be the sole topic of interest in Britain and the flood of sympathetic comment in all quarters shows that the nation has been touched to its core by the last pathetic appeal of the explorer, that his countrymen care for the bereaved families.

Little news of moment has come from the survivors in New Zealand. All the members of the party are in good health and will return to London as soon as possible.

Mrs. Scott will receive a pension of $1,000 a year from the Admiralty, which has decided that the relatives of Captain Scott and Petty Officer Evans, both of the royal navy, be treated as though killed in action. If an officer is killed in action the widow's pension is $500 a year more than half pay of his rank. Dr. Wilson leaves a wife and mother, Lieut. Bowers a widowed mother and two sisters, Captain Oates a mother and Evans a wife and three children.

The tragedy was referred to yesterday in the House of Commons by Premier Asquith. Speaking with evident emotion, he said:

"We all at this moment are under the deep impression created by the reading of the last message to the world left by Captain Scott, one of the most moving and pathetic utterances in the annals of discovery. We can only say that his last appeal will not fall on deaf ears."

The Premier, who was so deeply moved that his words were almost inaudible, added that the only official information in the hands of the Government was that contained in a brief telegram received yesterday from Lieut. E. R. G. Evans, of the royal navy, who was second in command, announcing the death of Scott and Seaman Evans.

Mr. Asquith's statement indicates that the British Government will take care of the dependents of the dead members of the expedition. Otherwise a Mansion House fund will be opened. Of the five explorers who perished, Captain Scott, Dr. Edward Wilson and Petty Officer E. Evans were married. Capt. L. E. G. Oates and Lieut. H. R. Bowers were single.

Grief and pride in the simple narrative of high courage, endurance and sacrifice given in Captain Scott's farewell message to the world, written when he was doomed to death with his companions in the Antarctic ice and snow are competitors for dominance in the feelings of the British public to-day.

The closing words of Captain Scott's epic: "Had we lived I should have had a tale to tell of the hardships, the endurance and the courage of my companions which would have stirred the heart of every Englishman. These rough notes and our dead bodies must tell the tale, but surely, surely, a great and rich country like ours will see that those who are dependent upon us are properly provided for," have had an electric effect.

Captain Scott's interest in the welfare of his men was emphasized by practically the last business he transacted before he left to join the expedition in New Zealand. This was the sale of his story.

He declined to make any profit from the transaction and decided that the total receipts should go to increase the financial reward of the men who had undertaken to share with him the dangers of the Antarctic region.
