Corneille would have died of want had not Louis XIV accidentally heard of his condition and sent him a sum of money.

Hawkesworth, who compiled the collection of voyages that goes by his name, was so disturbed by their unfavorable reception that the mortification shortened his life.

Goldsmith's improvidence caused him great annoyance. He was more than once compelled to dodge his ereditors and on at least one occasion was looked up for debt.

Vespasian was rendered miserable by his avarioe. Although he had the Roman empire at his command, he would quarrel with his cooks about the price of a dinner.

Baxter, he of the "Saints Rest," was accustomed to imprisonment, so that it gave him little uneasiness. His greatest misery when in jail was to be deprived of his books.

No remedy compares with this wonderfully valuable Nervine Tonic as a builder and strengthener of the life forces of the human body, and as a great renewer of a broken-down constitution. It is also of more real permanent value in the treatment and cure of diseases of the lungs than any consumption: remedy ever used on this continent. It is a marvelous cure for nervousness of females of all ages. Ladies who are approaching the critical: period known as change in life, should not fail to use this great Nervine Tonic, almost constantly, for the space of two or three years. It will carry them safely over the danger. This great strengthener and curative is of inestimable value to the aged and infirm, because its great energizing properties will give them a new hold on life. NERVOUS DISEASES. As a cure for every class of Nervous Diseases, no remedy has been able to compare with the Nervine Tonic, which is very pleasant and harmless in all its effects upon the youngest child or the oldest and most delicate individual. Nine-tenths of all the ailments to which the human family is heir are dependent on nervous exhaustion and impaired digestion. When there is an insufficient supply of nerve food in the blood, a general state of debility of the brain, spinal marrow, and nerves is the result. Starved nerves, like starved muscles, become strong when the right kind of food is supplied; and a thousand weaknesses and ailments disappear as the nerves recover. As the nervous system must supply all the power by which the vital forces of the body are carried on, it is the first to suffer for want of perfect nutrition. Ordinary food does not contain a sufficient quantity of the kind of nutriment necessary to repair the wear our present mode of living and labor imposes upon the nerves. For this reason it becomes necessary that a nerve food be supplied. This South American Nervine has been found by analysis to contain the essential elements out of which nerve tissue is formed. This accounts for its universal adaptability to the cure of all forms of nervous de-

Tangement.

To the Great South American Medicine Co.:

Dear Genes.—I desire to say to you that I have suffered for many years with a very serious disease of the s. omach and nerves. I tried every medicine I could hear of, but nothing done me many appreciable good until I was advised to try your Great South American Nervine Toole and Stomach and Liver Cura, and since using several bottles of it I must say that I am surprised at its wonderful powers to cure the stomach and general nervous system. If everyone knew the value of this remedy as I do you would not be able to supply the demand.
