CHATHAM, Mass., Jan. 21.-The sted schooner Electa Bailey was discov ered ashore off Harbing's Beach early this morning. She was bound from Poole's Land-ing, Me., for Portsmouth, Va., laden with he. She encountered the storm Saturday night off Cross Rip, and Capt. Clay reports that they had a hard time of it. The sails were blown away, so that they could not get to windward, so they turned back and an-chored off the northwest of Handkerchief Lightship. A great deal of lee formed about the vessel and finally her anchor chains part-ed, and she was driven before the gale into Chatham Bay, where she went ashore. Capt. Herbert Eldredge and crew of the Chatham Life Saving Station went to the assistance of the crew this morning and took them off. The men were all badly frostbitten, but are doing well tonight. It is expected they will so to Boston tomorrow. It is believed that the vessel will go to pieces, as she is an old one, although she is now in an easy position. She was built at Petersburg, N. J., in 1868, and hailed from, Bangor. She is ils feet long, 31.1 feet broad, 9.2 feet deep; net tornage, 299. MONTREEAL, Jan. 21.-Mayor Preered ashore off Harbing's Beach early this
