

Where America's Rich Society Women Minister to Wounded Brought From Battlefield

Sussex girl, a nurse in American hospital at Neuilly, near Paris, writes of work being done.

Miss Georgie Mackenzie, of Sussex, who is one of the nurses in the American hospital at Neuilly, near Paris, has sent to the Standard the following cutting from the Springfield Republican, being an article written by W. P. Sims, United Press staff correspondent at Paris. Miss Mackenzie is a niece of William M. Campbell, of the Customs staff here.

The American Hospital here, where wounded soldiers of all the nationalities are taken care of, is admittedly the best military hospital in France. Located in Neuilly, just outside the walls of Paris, in one of the prettiest residence districts about the city, this institution, at the head of which is Ambassador Myron T. Herrick and a group of millionaire Americans, is taking care of some 400 patients. There are French and English, Germans and Austrians, Algerians, Hindus, and Senegalese, and each patient declares he has drawn the Grand Prize in the lottery of hospitals.

I confess frankly that I visited the hospital expecting to see the sad lot of group of rich citizens of the United States resident in Paris. I expected to see a certain amount of good being done, of course, but after the fashion of the dilettante. I expected to find a "nice" place run in a "nice" way where "nice" soldiers, more or less wounded, were being treated by "nice" doctors in the nicest way possible. In short, I expected to find a plaything of the idle rich—that is the charge most often made against the Americans residing in Paris—a new toy, an amusement of a kind that is different. What I really found was the exact opposite. I was led through one of the most up-to-date hospitals ever extant, conducted on modern lines, by the most business-like of men, and the patients are plain soldiers, the unwashed campaigners of all the armies, officers and men getting precisely the same care.

The American ambulance is the name given this annex to a regular American Hospital. It is a new school building which the government took at the beginning of the war. The American Colonies here asked that it be turned over to them for use of the Americans; all expenses to be paid by Americans; the government acquiesced.

Five weeks ago the building was not quite finished. Brick and mortar and the like were everywhere. The windows had not been put in; disorder reigned. Now the establishment is a model of efficiency and order. In a basement room where no soldiers are supposed ever to be, a model kitchen has been installed, the kitchen stoves and other machinery from the Hotel Carleton have been transported bodily to the hospital. There is a dining room for convalescents; another for the personnel of the hospital; there are perfectly managed store rooms; a refrigerating plant; another where water is purified by ultra-violet rays; American elevators have been built in, one for freight, one for patients; these were completed in five days.

In Neuilly, the patients are admitted to the hospital and given a first examination. Those whose condition permits of it, are given a bath—for most soldiers in the field stand badly in need of water. The badly wounded are washed as well as possible and put to bed for a short rest. Next comes the operation if necessary, then follows the daily care of nurses and physicians.

Lastly the dentist visits the patients. Their teeth are filled or pulled; their gums treated. Some of the soldiers for the first time hear lectures on the subject of tooth brushes and learn what it is to have a mouth full of clean and well-taken-care-of teeth. The dentists who perform this free service are among the best known in the world.

When the soldier-patients are able to sit up, during pretty weather they recline on easy chairs upon a flat roof and drink in the sunshine. They are then spooled; petted like children. And among them are Arabs whose only idea of luxury is a bit of canvas stretched under a palm in the edge of the great African desert.

The Board of Directors of this hospital are American business men whose homes are in Paris. There are five of them and once every five days each director is chosen to be the director of the day when, donning the white suit of an intern, he superintends the work of the entire institution.

The physicians are American and French, whose names are known in two hemispheres.

The nurses are mostly rich American society women and girls, some of whom have won their diplomas. Some of the wealthiest women in Paris, however, are daily serving their apprenticeship as nurses by rolling bandages and doing other humble work.

I went the rounds of the place with a French army surgeon. He entered the building with the air of a man who has nothing to learn. He left it filled with great admiration. As he went away he remarked in a tone which seemed to carry just a trace of resentment:

"It is a shame that here in our own country we must come to this American to find out how a military hospital should be conducted!"

Quick, Painless Way to Remove Hairy Growths

(Helps to Beauty)

Here is a simple, unfailing way to rid the skin of objectionable hair: With some powdered delatone and water make enough paste to cover the hairy surface, apply and in about two minutes rub off, wash the skin and every trace of hair has vanished. This is quite harmless, but to avoid disappointment be sure to get the delatone in an original package.

AMERICAN ACTRESS, PRO-GERMAN, LOSES POPULARITY AT DRURY LANE, IN LONDON

Miss Fernie Rogers, a pretty American actress, who has been playing the title role in "The Sleeping Beauty," the pantomime at Drury Lane, in London, has severed her connection with the production. It is alleged her expression in the theatre of enthusiastic pro-German sentiment had her presence in a company of British actors impossible. The situation has been acute for a fortnight, and the crisis was precipitated by the delivery of a "round robin" signed by nearly all the principals in the pantomime addressed to Mr. Arthur Collins.

FUNERAL OF POPULAR C.P.R. CONDUCTOR AT WOODSTOCK JUNCTION

Woodstock Junction, N. B., Jan. 11.—The whole communities of Woodstock Junction, Andover and Perth Junction, have been totally upset by the accidental death of Conductor Tom Craig, one of the most popular and best liked of the C. P. R. conductors, who fell and was badly crushed between platform and train at Benton Station, N. B., on January 7th, and whose death took place almost immediately on arrival at Woodstock Hospital the same evening.

Special arrangements were made for the funeral by the C. P. R., which were very carefully carried out under the supervision of Assistant Superintendent W. J. Pickrell. A special train brought up a large number of relatives and friends from Woodstock, N. B., and some of the intermediate stations, another train bring a number of C. P. R. trainmen from Edmundton, N. B.

A short service was held at the residence of the deceased at Woodstock Junction, conducted by the Rev. J. R. Hopkins, Episcopal minister, and two hymns were sung, Abide with Me, and Peace Perfect Peace, by a choir led by Mr. Langley, and a puny, ultra-violet rays; American elevators have been built in, one for freight, one for patients; these were completed in five days.

PLAN AT FREDERICTON TO PRESS HAY FOR USE OF BRITISH ARMY HORSES

Plans Under Consideration and Capital May be Selected for Location of Plant.

Special to The Standard.
Fredericton, Jan. 12.—Fredericton is likely to be the centre for carrying on extensive hay pressing operations in connection with the shipment of hay from New Brunswick for the British army horses on the European continent.

Representatives of the parties who will be in charge of the purchasing and shipment of the hay are to visit Fredericton this week to inspect a plant which will be available for use and which, it is declared, is admirably situated because of its convenient shipping facilities.

It is proposed to ship 7,000 tons of New Brunswick hay by the first week in March, and as long as the supply lasts the shipments will be continued. In the event of the parties deciding upon Fredericton as the place to establish their present plant, employment will be given to many of the unemployed in the city that is not in operation is available for use, and that the required power is available there.

Until arrangements reach a more advanced stage it has been felt advisable not to make public too many of the details in connection with the plans that are now being completed, but it is understood that a large manufacturing plant in the city that is not in operation is available for use, and that the required power is available there.

It is proposed to have the hay shipped from the farmers' barns in the usual farmers' bundles to the compressing plant here. The central plant will then press the bundles as sent in from the farmers so that they will occupy about one half the space.
