PARIS LETTER.

(Regular Correspondence.)
Paris, Sept. 15th, 1879.

At ten o'clock yesterday morning the trial of the criminal band of which Abadie was the chief was resumed at the court of Assizes of the Seine. The crowd present was as great as on the day before, and the place Dauphine and the steps leading to the law courts were thronged during the whole day. When the examination of the prisoners by the judge was over, M. Villejard de Laguerie, Advocate-General, took up the case on behalf of the prosecution. He drew a sketch of the antecedents of the prisoners. The parents had in all cases been honest people, and had given their sons the best education which they could afford. Abadie began life by robbing his brother, whilst Gilles ruined his aged father by making away with 20,000 f., which constituted his fortune. Charton and Farigouille were mere children. The first attempt of this band was to rob a couple of the name of Julieniers. The whole troop was conducted, with great regularity and science, by Abadies, who had studied the locality well; he knew exactly where the money box was kept. All the band was armed in case of attack, and hammers were ready at hand to force open the chest. The plan failed however, because Charton who was told to open the door let the hatch fall through nervousness. The Julieniers were consequently awakened and began crying out, whereupon Abadie's band immediately decamped. Gilles and Abadie were alone concerned in the murder of Madam Bassengeud the wife of a wine seller. It was at the sixth attempt that they succeeded in finding their victim alone. They asked her for a glass of rum and wine, and whilst her back was turned Gilles seized her throat, whilst Abadie struck her with a knife. The latter then left him, in order to carry off all he could find, whilst Gilles killed her with twelve blows of his dagger. The Advocate General concluded by demanding a verdict that would permit the penalty of death to be inflicted upon Abadie and Gilles. For the other prisoners he demanded imprisonment. At twelve o'clock the sitting of the court was suspended for half an hour, at the expiration of which the defence of the prisoners was heard. All had separate counsel. Abadie's counsel appealed ad misericordiam, urging that his client had the prejudice of public opinion set against him by the press, that he was filled with remorse or what he had done—the prisoner meanwhile sobbing in the dock. Several letters were next read from Abadie to his mother, and from this unfortunate woman to her son. The audience was much moved by this correspondence, which was occasionally very touching. Gilles's defender, M. Leon, took up another line of argument, attempting to prove that his client had all along been the dupe and the instrument of Abadie. Amongst other things he said that at a previous conviction years ago, if the magistrate had not sentenced one so young to prison, but had sent him to a reformatory, he would not in all probability, be now accused of murder. In defending Claude, the barrister stated that the public prosecutor had been making jokes, upon which the judge invited him to moderate his language. But later on when reference was made by M. Conby to the conduct of the police, he was called to order in more severe terms. When the two younger prisoners had also been pleaded for, the president summed up, and it was nearly six o'clock when the jury retired. They were absent three-quarters of an hour, and returned with a verdict of guilty against all the prisoners, admitting extenuating circumstances in favor of Claude, Charton, and Farigouille only. After discarding some technical objections on the part of the lawyers, judgment was pronounced. Abadie and Gilles were condemned to death; Claude to seven years imprisonment and ten years police supervision; and Charton and Farigouille to detention in a house of correction for two years. Upon hearing their condemnation, Abadie fainted, but the other prisoners appeared unmoved. Gilles observed to Claude who was not condemned to death, "What a lucky dog you are!" Young Farigouille exclaimed, "To-morrow is Sunday; hurrah! we shall have meat instead of those horrid beans we have been fed upon for a week."

INDIGESTION.—You have tried everything for it and found no relief. We are no doctors, but can offer a prescription that has cured very many, and it might cure you as well; it will cost but a few cents, and can be had at any druggist's. Ask for Perry Davis' Pain-Killer.

FELLOWS' COMPOUND SYRUP OF HYPOPHOSPHITES

Is composed of ingredients identical with that which constitute Health, Blood, Muscle and Nerve and Brain Substance, whilst Life itself is directly dependent upon some of them.

By its union with the blood and its effect upon the muscles, re-establishing the one and toning the other, it is capable of effecting the following results:

It will displace or wash out tuberculous matter, and thus cure Consumption.
By increasing Nervous and Muscular Vigor, will cure Dyspepsia, feeble or interrupted action of the Heart and Palpitation, Weakness of Intellect caused by grief, worry, overtax or irregular habits, Bronchitis, Acute and Chronic Congestion of the Lungs, even in the most alarming stages.

It cures Asthma, Loss of Voice, Neuralgia, &c., St. Vitus Dance, Epileptic Fits, Whooping Cough, Nervousness, and is a most wonderful adjunct to other remedies in sustaining life during the progress of Diphtheria.

An endless chain of good effects is formed by Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, and we are able to state, from a long experience in medicine, its virtues are not possible to say other combination, as the following will demonstrate.

IT IS ACCEPTABLE to palate and stomach. SUFFICIENTLY POTENT to insure decided benefit, yet harmless, however long its use may be continued. This characteristic is possessed by no other remedy.

IT ASSISTS DIGESTION and assimilation. IT VITALIZES THE BLOOD, supplying such ingredients as may be required.

IT RESTORES TONE to the nerves. IT GIVES POWER of endurance and of concentration to the mind.

IT PROMOTES VIGOR in the organs which depend for health on the involuntary muscular action, viz: the Liver, Lungs, Heart, Stomach, and Goutals.

And unless afflicted with some disease involving absolute organic loss, it will sustain the system until it reaches the age allotted to man by a beneficent Creator.

NO PERSON will be disappointed in the effect of FELLOWS' HYPOPHOSPHITES, who rigidly follows the directions.

FELLOWS' HYPOPHOSPHITES.
RECEPTION.

The experiments which perfected this preparation occupied many months, and were instituted with a view to curing that insidious disease, TUBERCULAR CONSUMPTION.

and in order to supply the deficiencies in Hypophosphites already in use, for although their nature was correct as to theory, their preparations were, owing to their imperfect organization, found wanting in practice.

While they caused the formation of fat and generated heat, they did not improve the blood. It is not the heat upon the nerves and muscles, as it is, involving large doses, they were also too expensive.

The desiderata sought by Mr. Fellows, were:
A convenient, palatable remedy;
Unalterable by time;
Harmless, though used continuously, yet might be discontinued at any time without any ill effect.
Which would induce an appetite;
Strengthen digestion;
Promote assimilation;
Create healthy blood;
Strengthen the nerves and muscles;
Enable the subject to successfully combat disease;
And sufficiently economical for all.

All this has been indubitably attained. The success of the work is complete, and Fellows' Hypophosphites stands foremost amongst the remedies for chronic organic diseases, possessing properties to which no other medicines has ever aspired.

ABSTRACT EFFECTS.
Fellows' Hypophosphites, on being introduced into the stomach, unites with the food, and immediately enters the circulation; and, being perfectly miscible with the blood, speedily pervades every part of the system. Its effects are first declared by a pulse slightly increased in fullness and strength, a general exaltation of the organic functions, and exhilaration of the intellectual powers. Its specific influence is on the brain and nervous substance, increasing the activity of the absorbents, and refining the blood, thus causing the healthy muscular formation necessary in restoring the functions of the previously weakened organs.

Being then a tonic of the nervous and circulatory system, it follows that, when there is a demand for extraordinary exertion, its use is invaluable, since it supplies the waste through the circulation, and sustains the general system.

At no period of life is watchful care over the functions of the brain more requisite than during the acquisition of knowledge by the youth; plodding, persevering study requires a store of vigorous nervous force, or the child may sink under the mental toil.

Strenuous necessity may compel the student to strain his powers beyond the dictates of prudence, and the early promise of excellence may be blighted thereby.

To such we recommend Fellows' Hypophosphites; it will not only restore the sinking patient, but it will enable the toiling student to preserve his mental and nervous standard without detriment.

NOTE.—Be suspicious of persons who recommend any other article as "just as good" though bearing a similar name, and of those who offer it cheaper priced article.

NOTE.—It is only the Independent, well-posted and unbiased Physicians who can afford to prescribe this remedy. Experience has proved this. The highest class medical men in every large city, where it is known, recommend it.
