

Briscoe
The Canadian Motor Co., Limited

Good to look at—Good to drive

JUST compare the "looks" of this car with others of its price-class. You must admit it has them all beat for style.

Its snappy, eager performance under hardest tests and under the exacting conditions of day-in and day-out use, may be ascertained by enquiring among those who are fortunate enough to have driven Briscoe cars during the past few years.

It is under its graceful stream-line "hood" that you find the real reason for the popularity of this sturdy, powerful car—the world-famous Briscoe Motor is the feature that makes every Briscoe owner proud of his car.

His pride is pardonable when he sees his car climb hills with ease. His pride is justified by the manner in which his car "handles" in city traffic and slips past other cars on the open highway.

But his greatest satisfaction is derived from the manner in which his Briscoe Motor squeezes the miles out of a gallon of gasoline.

The following prices are f.o.b. Brockville:
Special Touring, $1,540 Standard Touring, $1,450 Roadster, $1,450

An Old Resident of Hungerford Passed Away

On Wednesday, February 25th, one of Hungerford Township's oldest residents passed away in the person of Mr. Gilbert Parks, at the age of 90 years.

He was born in Thurlow Township in 1829 and at 14 years of age came with his father, Mr. Archibald Parks, to Hungerford Township, settling on the Parks homestead. For the past 67 years he has resided upon this farm and during that time has never left the confines of the County, with a few exceptions. One of these was an occasion of a trip to Michigan.

Over 10 years ago he gave the ground for the present site of the Parks Methodist Church and Cemetery and he has been a life-long supporter of that church. He took a great interest in church work and was always ready to lend a helping hand. In political life he was a Liberal, and was greatly respected by all his acquaintances for his broad mindedness and interest in the welfare of others.

On July 13th last he was the victim of a paralytic stroke and from this he never recovered. On January 3rd he suffered another stroke and this confined him to his bed until death.

He leaves to mourn his loss his widow, who is 87 years of age; six daughters and three sons. The sons are, Theodore, of Tyndinaga; Edgar, Hutchinson, Kansas; and Abraham, at home. The daughters are, Mrs. J. Shaw, of Roslin; Mrs. W. A. Williams, Belleville; Mrs. Wm. Shaw, Thomasburg; Mrs. Mary E. Denike, Tweed; Misses Melissa and Lillie at home. His youngest son, Ernest predeceased him three years ago. These are sixteen grand-children, and two great-grandchildren.

The funeral services were conducted on Friday afternoon at the home by Rev. W. R. Merrick; interment being made in the family plot.

This passing of one of Hungerford's first pioneers and settlers, is regretted by a large number of friends and relatives but it was the close of a life which through long years of industry and usefulness, had come down to a hoary age. — Tweed News.

Local Markets Are Essential

hip of business and in every community the question is a vital one. In each community, which must be taken to include not only all the people who live in the town but the farmers who live in the surrounding country as well, there are two sides to the market question. The business men of the town must have a market for the things which they have to sell. Otherwise they cannot continue in business. At the same time the farmers must have a market for the things which they raise or they may as well go out of business.

When Either Falls Both Suffer.

The merchants of the town can provide a market for the products of the farmers and the farmers can provide a market for the goods which the merchants have to sell. As long as each class of citizens provides a market for the other class all is well and the goose hangs high, but when either class fails to provide a market for the other the goose is cooked, not only for the class which is deprived of the market but for the other as well.

The farmer has a right to expect the town which is his natural trading point to provide a market for his products, and the town is not performing its proper function as the trading center of its community if it does not see that such a market is provided. The responsibility of looking after the fulfillment of this obligation rests largely upon the merchants of the town. The farmer is a producer and he must dispose of his products before he can become a consumer. It is, therefore, not only right but necessary from a business standpoint that the merchants should aid the farmer in turning his products into money. Otherwise the farmer naturally will have no money to spend in the stores of the town.

Obligation on Farmers.

On the other hand, the merchants of the town have a right to expect the farmers to provide a market for the merchandise which they have to sell, and the farmers are not doing their duty to their community if they do not provide such a market. In this case, it is not only right but it is necessary to the prosperity of the farmers that they should aid the merchants in turning their merchandise into cash. Otherwise it is obvious that the merchants will have no money with which to buy the products of the farmers.

This is a double-barreled proposition and the obligation rests equally upon both the merchants and the farmers to maintain the markets which are essential to both classes of citizens. Any town which would import from points hundreds of miles distant the farm products which it could buy at home would be pursuing a very short-sighted policy, for it would be making it impossible for the farmers in its territory to buy the goods of its merchants. As a matter of fact no town does this unless it is forced by unusual conditions to do so. A town may be located in a community which is not productive enough to meet the local demands, and in that case it is forced to import farm products but the town which is compelled to do this is at a disadvantage from a commercial standpoint unless it is essentially a manufacturing town, in which case its products are sold to other communities, and bring in enough cash to effect that which is sent away to purchase farm products.

Old March came in like Mary's lamb With fleece as white as snow It gives me painful thoughts to think How March will likely go.

We needed rain I guess, but still We didn't need the flu I'd rather have a naughty lamb, Like Mary wouldn't you?

But March came in and March will go. With weather rough and boiling I say to you, it's like the flu. It makes one feel like moulting.

Mr. Sam Reid who has been suffering with pneumonia at the Belleville Hospital is not so well to-day — Monday.

Mr. Stanley Mallory has returned home from Hamilton.

To be absolutely lost was the unfortunate experience of one of our neighbors recently.

A lantern was carried to the barn for the purpose of enabling this unfortunate person (who afterward lost the trail) to carry out the work in hand. After the chores were accomplished and it was decided to hit the pike for the residence, a terrific gale suddenly blew up and as a consequence the lantern blew out as well as all sense of direction from this neighbor's memory. It's a terrible feeling to have hanging over you, that you're lost beyond all hope of recovery, especially with no light and a cyclone ready to swallow you up, to say nothing of the thousands of things that are ready to reach out and pick you on the head in the dark. Just imagine.

Meanwhile the rest of the family were enjoying a very comfortable evening around a warm fire. Suddenly the cry for help was heard and upon going outside someone was heard to say — "I'm lost, I'm lost! I'm out by the barn, come and get me quick!" The missing one was skillfully piloted to the house and needless to say there was greater rejoicing over the one that was lost than over the ninety and nine that foisted their shins by the fire and knew exactly where they were.

Children Have Naught to Wear

Thousands of Them Without Clothing and Are Slowly Starving as Well.

In Paris, reports say, the women go stockless from choice. In Poland thousands of men, women and children go stockless — and shodless — from necessity. As Poland's climate is more rigorous than that of France, what is only "smart" in Paris smarts in Poland.

This shockingly barefoot state in the new Polish state has been reported by Frank W. America, an American Red Cross Representative stationed in Warsaw, who recently made a trip of inspection throughout the Polish Republic.

"In a whole day's travel," he writes, "we did not see a cow, nor did we pass a horse or dog. The peasant refugees who did have a cart full of meager household goods hauled it themselves. On one stretch of road we unusually saw an large number of refugees barefooted. Then we noticed that they were carrying their boots under their arms. They were saving them for the colder days when there was snow and slush under foot."

Shoes, according to Ildore Hershfield, a prominent lawyer of New York, have been all but an unknown luxury in Poland for the past two years. Mr. Hershfield has made two trips to Poland in that period. He is now preparing to sail again for Warsaw, where he will supervise the disbursing of funds and the distribution of supplies to be procured last year by the American Jewish Relief Committee.

"Last winter," states Mr. Hershfield, "it was a common sight to see men, women and children barefoot in Warsaw and other Polish cities which I visited. Snow or slush was often under foot, and the suffering among the poorer Jewish classes that resulted from the dearth of shoes was terrible. Families remained indoors as much as possible, but hunger forced them to go out from time to time to seek food at Jewish relief stations."

Quantity shipments of shoes, stockings, warm underwear and other essential wearing apparel will be made possible by the $1,000,000 to be sought in the Canadian Jewish Relief appeal soon to be made.

Choked for Air. Some little irritant becomes lodged in the bronchial tubes, others gather, and the awful choking of asthma results. Nothing offers quite such quick and positive relief as Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy. The healing, soothing, smoke or vapor penetrates, clears the passages and gives untold relief. Usually it completely cures. It has behind it years of success. It is the sure remedy for every sufferer.
