New York, Sept. 22.—Secretary Harry Spawer of the Yankees announced last night the names of some of the players the club had obtained in the draft at Cincinnati last week. The promising talent includes Blodgett, a left-handed pitcher from Omaha; Ross, another left-hander from Chattanooga; Cable, an infielder from Bradford, Penn. and Shocker, a pitcher from the Ottawa Club of the Canadian League. Secretary Spawer also announced that the rumor that the Yankees had drawn Ping Bodie from San Francisco was a base exaggeration. Bodie was once with the White Sox and was sent back to the coast. The Yankees did not sign Whiteman, the outfielder from Montreal. "Whitey" was once with the Yanks and was released.

Other Insults.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

London, Sept. 22.—A place of prominence is given by the morning papers to the Archibald correspondence and most of them comment upon it editorially.

"No apologies," says The Chronicle, "can wipe out the stain or explain away the insults to the American people—those idiotic Yankees—as Captain von Papen describes them."

The Standard says: "The Yankees are not so idiotic, as the superior Captain von Papen thinks of the heroic deeds of the Germans, which have presented themselves to the people of the United States in the form of the killing of non-combatants."

EVERY PERSON RESCUED FROM LINER ATHENAI

Splendid Discipline and Courage Shown Under Trying Circumstances.

New York, Sept. 22.—The Anchor liner Tuscania arrived in port last night with members of the crew of the Greek steamer Athenai, which was abandoned at sea late Sunday afternoon after she had been afire for thirty-six hours. Every soul on board the burning vessel was rescued.

The officers of the Athenai said last night that they did not know what caused the fire. It was discovered at eight Saturday morning, which was her third day out from New York. It appeared to have broken out simultaneously in four different parts of No. 2 hold, which was largely filled with cotton bales, printing paper and other inflammable merchandise.

Although there was much excitement among the passengers when the seriousness of the fire was learned, the officers succeeded in allaying their fears, and until all were safely aboard the Tuscania before dark the next day, the passengers behaved coolly, with a few exceptions in the steerage. There were thirty-two Americans aboard, among them several bound as missionaries to Turkey, and they united in drawing up a memorial praising the conduct of Capt. McLean of the Tuscania and his crew for the "cool courage with which they dealt with a very dangerous task."

The crew of the Athenai, reinforced by a number of passengers, fought the fire all day Saturday with apparent success and at dusk they thought the fire was under control. The flames broke out again, however, during the night with increased fierceness, and at 9 a.m. Sunday Captain Bozatis decided to send out "S. O. S." calls, to which the Tuscania, Touraine and the Roumanian Prince responded. The Tuscania, proceeding at full speed, arrived at noon, and sent a crew aboard with chemical fire extinguishers and smoke helmets with which the Athenai's crew was not provided. First Officer McNeill of the Tuscania and some of his men went down into the hold and reported that the fire could not be controlled. However, Capt. Bozatis kept up the fight for the rest of the afternoon before deciding to abandon the ship. The wireless then brought eight lifeboats from the Tuscania and with a few of the Athenai's boats the passengers were transferred without accident, the weather being mild and the sea calm.

Women and children went first, and although several of the men steerage passengers sought to enter one of the first boats, they were so roughly handled by the crew that they were content to wait their turn. Four of the steerage passengers themselves launched out of the Athenai's boats and made for the Tuscania, but when they tried to board her ahead of the other boats were beaten off by the Tuscania's crew, and were forced to wait until all the women and children had been safely transferred.

Meanwhile the Roumanian Prince had arrived and took off 61 of the 470 souls afloat.

One second-class passenger, Thos. Satir of Meadville, Pa., died of heart disease on board the Tuscania the next day. Most of the passengers lost all their baggage.

The Athenai was last seen a blazing torch against the night sky. Her officers believed that she must have soon gone down.

COMMANDERS GIVEN STRICT ORDERS AGAIN

Not to Sink Liners If There is Slightest Risk of Error Attached.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

Berlin, Sept. 21, via London Sept. 22.—Commanders of German submarines have been given strict orders, it has been learned authoritatively, that in case of doubt as to the intentions of liners they are to take the safe course and permit the ship to escape rather than run the slightest risk of error.

This order supplements the instructions as communicated to the Washington government by Ambassador von Bernstorff on September 1. There is reason to believe the new regulation already is known to Washington as it probably was embodied in the message of instructions sent to the German ambassador a few days ago.

It is understood here that the United States already informed that the various officers of the submarine launched on the Atlantic agreed from observations taken while the submarine was on the surface and through the periscope, while it was submerged that the Arabic was planning an attack. Nevertheless the officials concerned may be found willing to admit that the Arabic in reality was acting innocently in spite of the suspicion attaching to her behaviour and changes of course. There is reason to believe the settlement of the question of responsibility may be reached along these lines.

Dr. G. W. Sims, candidate for city commissioner of San Antonio, Tex., suicided after losing the election and $20,000.
