Acording to the London Times, a new agitation, an offshot of the Land League, is apringing up in the west of Ireland and threatens to give serious trouble. It is on the part of the shepb-rds, and has quietly grown to formidable proportions, nearly 2,000 members, it is said, being now enrolled. Its spirit is similiar to that of the League, and its mode of action modelled after the same pattern. Its members refuse to take the situations from which members have been unjustly dismissed, enforce certain regulations as to wages and dwellings, and refuse to work for obnoxious persons. Meetings are regularly held, new members enrolled, and money subscribed more liberally in proportion to the means of the members than in the National League.
