McLean dealing with the manning of Canadian ships, suggested the idea of a training ship, and of course we know he added, that warships need highly trained specialists, such as gunners, engineers, wireless operators and signal men. Until we had Canadians trained to that class of work we would, of course, get from England the man required. We should look forward to the time, however when we would have Canadian officers and such trained men to serve on Canadian ships. He thought however that Canada could very well establish a trained naval reserve. According to a high authority, which Col. McLean quoted, in an emergency even the largest armored vessels can be completed in about two years. It takes more than twice that time to train an efficient gunner or torpedo man, and over seven years to educate a responsible junior officer.

A new rebellion has broken out in Mexico. Felix Diaz, a nephew of the old President of that name, who had been in prison, was released by fellow rebels and took the lead of the insurgent troops. They gained control of the city of Mexico Sunday afternoon surrounded the national palace and captured the arsenal by assault. At latest accounts Diaz and his followers still held the Government institutions at bay. President Madero is attempting to drive the rebels back.

In these parts January has passed without a single really cold day. But it should be noticed that Dawson is doing its best to keep up Canada's reputation as the home of the old fashioned winter. The mercury up there was as low as 67 below zero this week.—Hamilton Herald.

If President elect Woodrow Wilson has his way the Democratic Congress will place breadstuffs, meats, vegetables and fruit on the free list in order to reduce the cost of living. This will open up the market of the United States to Canadians and still leave them free, as they ought to be, to regulate their own tariffs.—Vancouver News-Advertiser.

According to the woodchuck there is six weeks more of cold and stormy weather ahead of us. The woodchuck, however, is a bad judge. Last summer, when he might better have been sleeping, he was abroad, and all through December and January, when he might have enjoyed an outing, he hibernated. He does not appear to know anything more about the weather than animals that have no paws to suck.—Toronto Mail and Empire.
