The Home Maker.

There is an old adage which says "Woman's work is never done." Whose fault is it?

The woman in charge of the home knows there are duties which must be done day in and day out throughout the year, before her thoughts can be allowed to stray to pleasure and recreation. But even the multifarious duties connected with home life need not necessarily cause woman's work never to be done. Where the housewife has to undertake alone the entire management of the household, the question that arises is—Will it be a careless "anyhow" management, or a carefully thought-out "scheming" management—and, therefore, probably a successful one? The young wife is often very ignorant as to the management of a home, and thus finds the duties irksome and trying instead of being the pleasure anticipated prior to her marriage. The work seems to accumulate day by day, and the home loses its freshness, whilst the mistress of the home is making vain endeavours to keep pace with the ever-increasing tasks which must cross the path of the would-be successful house-maker.

The home-making woman, however, is born, not made. No amount of education can create the home-making instinct in a mind in which it is quite deficient. Fortunately for the good of humanity the home-making woman is in the majority.

Method is the great secret or success, and without it your work will drag on unnecessarily and tiringly from early morning until late at night, thus leaving no time for a change of any kind. This causes a feeling of resentment against other women whom you have seen going out in the early afternoon, whilst you are kept indoors with your numerous duties. And yet the women whom you are envying may have just as much work to do as you have, and sometimes more. But these are the women who have worked out a method of their own to lighten the daily tasks.

Whatever work you are engaged upon before marriage required method in order to get through the amount of work allotted to each day, therefore, the work in the house should be made your business. Just as much as you do the office work, etc. If a reasonable amount of work is allotted for each day of the week, and done in a methodical manner, it will ensure the housewife almost as much leisure as she enjoyed before marriage. Why is it so many women will try to crowd two days' work into one, and upset several rooms at once, instead of finishing one room before another is started upon? This is a slipshod way of running a house and is also a useless expenditure of energy.

The Value of Rest.

If you feel overdone, take a short rest on the bed rather than finish everything to the uttermost. This rest works wonders and, thus recuperated, you will meet your husband happier, and avoid the resultant discord caused by tiredness and irritability.

Some women, however, seem to think there is something heroic in making themselves slaves to their husbands and children, and are inclined to regard as lazy and neglectful other women who appear to have their afternoons—or evenings—free. Though they complain of the amount of cooking, housework, sewing, and mending, all of which are part of the household management, they never seem to realize how they could ease these burdens which seem to fall so heavily upon their shoulders.

There is so much to say in favour of the woman who is a perfect housewife that it comes as a shock to find

Whitbourne Notes.

The Anglican School was re-opened here on Monday 4th inst. by Miss J. Greenland, who was storm-bound at Coley's Point for a few days.

We understand the R. C. Catholic School, which has been closed during the last year or two, will be re-opened shortly. The building is now being got in readiness for that purpose.

It is rumoured that a resident Priest will be stationed here once again, some time in the near future.

Rev. C. Jeffrey, who took Sunday duty at Placentia, returned home on Monday last, 4th inst.

Mr. Gordon Sparkes, one of the Junior clerks of the railway telegraph office, went to town on Friday, returning on Sunday's express. Mr. Sparkes bids fair to "make good" in his chosen profession, and has lately been promoted with increase of salary. Congratulations.

Mr. Levi Chipman passed peacefully away, on Tuesday, 6th inst., leaving a widow and 6 young children. The deceased had been suffering with tuberculosis for some years. The funeral service was taken on Thursday, by Rev. C. Jeffrey, and was largely attended, when all that was mortal of Levi Chipman was laid to rest in the Anglican Cemetery "until the day dawn." Mrs. Chipman and family are leaving for St. John's Bay next week and will live with her brothers there in future.

Hard times seem to be causing some distress among some of the poorer residents here, certain of whom tramped to New Harbour on Thursday, where it was reported the Relieving Officer was dispensing aid to those in need, in the shape of flour, molasses, etc. After covering 24 miles there and back, the men came home empty-handed, but hope later on to be more successful, when the necessary enquiries are made in regard to genuine cases of poverty.

Rev. J. and Mrs. Reay, accompanied by their niece, Miss N. Colton, left for St. John's on Wednesday morning's train. Mrs. Reay's health has somewhat improved of late.

Miss M. Walsh left by the last Hospital, to resume her duties in a Hospital in New York City.

The ladies of the R. Catholic Communion, held an entertainment and dance, followed by a hot supper on the 4th inst. in aid of their school funds. The affair was largely patronized and a good sum netted for the above object.

Right Hon. Sir Robert Bond has his brother, Rev. Geo. Bond, visiting him at "The Grange" this week.

The Anglican school children are planning for a Sale of Work on St. George's Day, 23rd inst. Girls and boys are engaged in making some useful and ornamental articles to be sold for the benefit of their school. It is said. We wish the kiddies a happy and successful affair and a ready sale of their wares.

MARY DINN.

We record, with regret, the demise of an old and respectable lady, in the person of Mrs. Mary Dinn, of St. Joseph's, who passed to her eternal reward, in the early hours of Sunday, April 8th. She had reached the ripe age of 88 years, and was hearty and active till about three years ago, when she suddenly became an invalid. She bore her weary illness with true fortitude and resignation, receiving constantly the solace and blessings of Holy Church. After Requiem Mass on Tuesday, she was laid to rest beside her departed loved ones. Mrs. Dinn was admired and respected for her generous and hospitable disposition, and she was one of the old type, who always looked on the bright side of life. She leaves to mourn her, one daughter at St. Joseph's, Mrs. John D. Daly, and a large circle of relatives, to whom we offer our deepest sympathy. May her soul rest in peace.—Com.

JOSEPH JOY.

A very sudden death occurred at Argentea yesterday afternoon, April 8th, in the person of Mr. Joseph Joy. Deceased leaves to mourn him a wife, two sons and two daughters, for whom much sympathy is felt.

"Slightly at night the stars are shining. On a lonely, silent grave; Where you lie our dearest loved one. Whom we loved, but could not save.

Your chair stands alone and empty. In the home you loved so well; And how much we miss you. Only God alone can tell.

GETTING HOME.

Getting home is best, I say! Though it's fun to go away. And there's pleasure in a trip Overland or on a ship. Taking you to splendours new. After all the journey's through. Makes no difference where you roam. There's no thrill like getting home.

Maybe with a thumping heart You look forward to the start. And you think you'll never get Quite enough of it. After you have journeyed far Through the nation's wonders are. Soon you'll find you hunger for. All the folks at home once more.

You may laugh and sing and shout. As you wander, in and out. Meeting new friends everywhere. Seeing glories here and there. But these joys at last will pall. And you'll wish above it all For that happiest moment when You'll be starting home again.

Trips are glorious things to take. Journeys everyone should make. There are places good to be seen. Much the eyes of man should see. But no matter where you go, This you'll surely come to know— Best thing that man can do when They get you back home again.

Editor Evening Telegram.

I can tell you for a fact, that some of the Secretaries of the outport Agricultural Societies, under his Department are still without their stipends for 1920. Incredibly you say, but nevertheless true. This is the Reform Government—reform with a vengeance. These salaries are overdue nearly four months, and Secretaries are anxious to know what has become of the money voted last year for Agricultural purposes.

Mr. Moore, M.H.A. for Ferryland, said in the Assembly the other day, "Dr. Campbell, Minister of Agriculture, went to Canada with $50,000 of the people's money and brought down some scrub cattle, etc." This explains very lucidly where the grant has gone and why the obedient and humble servants of the Minister are still looking out for their small cheques.

Now that questions are being tabled by the Opposition, may I respectfully suggest that along with the many and interesting queries being put, that the Hon. Dr. Campbell be questioned (a) If the Secretaries of the outport Agricultural Societies have yet been paid their salaries for the year 1920? (b) If not, why not?

Did not some of us at least, learn in our catechism that one of the four sins that cry to Heaven for vengeance is to defraud labourers of their wages. Who was guilty of this? Those who withhold too long the payment of the wages of their employees, etc. Surely every workman is worthy of his hire.

Hoping, Mr. Editor, that our economical government will economize in some one of the many and useless departments of expenditure other than depriving the outport Agricultural Secretaries of their just and petty cheques.

Yours faithfully,
ONE INTERESTED.

A Nameless Irish Hero.

A British regiment had been ordered to advance and capture a little town on the Flanders front. With magnificent zest the Tommies advanced along the main road leading into the town. A few scattered groups of Germans opposed them, but the steadily gave way before the British and led them on to the immediate vicinity of the town. The British commander was at the point of ordering his men to make a final charge that would carry them into the main street of the village when they heard someone shouting, "Back, back, sir! There's a trap set for you!"

Looking at the direction of the officer saw a man standing on a window sill of a house on the edge of the town. Then as the man shouted he leaped down from the window and started running toward the British troops.

Spl! Spl! went the hidden machine guns, and the poor fellow pitched forward headlong, riddled with bullets. By a flank movement the British troops skirted the ambush and took the town from another point. When the fighting was over, the officer and his men looked for the man who had so pluckily saved them.

Lying in the middle of the road was his body; he was a young, handsome Irishman. His identification disk was missing, however, and his papers had been taken from him. Plainly he had recently been a prisoner and confined in the room from which he had seen the preparations for ambushing the British troops. Reverently they buried the young hero, feeling that but for him scarcely a man of them would have survived. Though his name is not known, his deed will never be forgotten by those whom he saved.

Fashions and Fads.

Plaiting is yet in vogue. Suit coats have narrow belts. The side train is again in favor. Smocks have come back into vogue. Paris favors a dash of red in the costume. Velvet ribbons are in vogue as more this season. Polka-dotted stockings are the latest fad.

Very new and youthful is the puffed sleeve. A great deal of lace is used on the new hats. Taffeta and peach skin hats are very popular. White and gray are fashionable in neckwear. All-black footwear is being worn more this season. Novelty gantlet gloves are the most fashionable. Skirts are decidedly wide, and are longer. Coats of black satin have quilted or blistered collars. A dress of crepe satin has puffed sleeves of organdie. Front and back panels are used even on bathing suits. Crepe fabrics are extremely fashionable this season. Side tunics are trimmed with bands of solid stitching. The homespun bag embroidered in wool is a smart accessory.
