Shaving Brush Secrets

"Real badger hair, sir—only three shillings."

This was said to the writer by way of pushing the sale of a shaving brush, but the description did not deceive.

Badgers are very, very rare in Great Britain, and are becoming rarer still every year. Even on the Continent they are not numerous. Then, as those who know how delightfully springy a real badger brush is can guess, only the hair of certain parts of the animal can be used. This reduces the number of genuine badger hair brushes still more.

Pigs' bristles are too hard to take the place of badger hair, while the hair of other animals is mostly too soft and not sufficiently resilient.
It is the opossum and the mongoose which supply most of the "badger-hair" used for brushes. Why the badger should have to shoulder a responsibility which really belongs elsewhere is one of the mysteries of trade names which, like the "beaver hat," and many others, puzzle the ordinary man.

Human and Fashion

NEW DRESS ADORNMENT FOR WOMEN.

Human hair is now being used by some women to decorate their coat collars, cuffs, and even their blouses.

One woman, seen in Fiddally yesterday morning, wore a long black coat which had the edges of the collar trimmed with human hair. The cuffs were similarly adorned, while more human hair hung from the edge of the front of her cream-coloured blouse.

Monkey fur, which has been the rage for a time, has apparently found a rival among those whose tresses have been bobbed or shingled.

Not so Many Boards

A characteristic story of Sir H.
Beerbohm Tree is told by Mr. Charles Latrobe, for many years stage director at the Haymarket Theatre.
Latrobe chanced to meet Tree in the Haymarket one evening, and the latter pointed out to him the "House Full" boards outside His Majesty's with the remark, "Isn't it wonderful for the time of the year?"

For answer, Latrobe drew Tree's attention to the "House Full" boards outside the Haymarket.
Tree was silent for a moment; then, as he turned away, he said blandly, "Ah, but not so many boards!"

Teacher Fell for it

Formerly the Education Officer of the London County Council, the veteran Sir Robert Blair, tells an amusing story of a little chap at a certain primary school who, eager to show off his newly acquired knowledge to his class-mates, began his discourse as follows:

"I is."
The teacher swooped down at once. "Never say, 'I is,' she admonish. 'It is never, never, never correct. Always say 'I am.'" Tommy looked pained, but he was always an obedient little chap.
"I am the ninth letter of the alphabet," he continued timidly, and even his little mates were not too young to appreciate the discomfiture of the teacher.

Here's a Raincoat you Can Shove in Pocket

COLOGNE, Germany, Aug. 16.— Stormproof, featherweight coats which may be easily carried in the pocket have appeared here this season. They are made of wool or silk, and weigh from nineteen to twenty ounces.

A handy "pull-on" hat, also of waterproof material, made to match the coat, is to be had as well. This hat weighing three ounces, is so constructed that rain cannot drip down the neck. The featherweight coats for men come in several designs of an all-wool cloth, while the more luxurious garments for women are of silk.

A Long Time Ago

The criminal trial was just about to commence and the jury had assembled in the box and were about to be sworn in by the clerk of the court. All went along like a house on fire until number ten was arrived at. He was a meek, little man, with

As Per Directions

The door of the doctor's consulting-room opened, and a patient was ushered in.

"Ah!" exclaimed the doctor on seeing his visitor.

"How do you do, Mr. Jones? I'm glad to see you looking so much better. After this perhaps you will have more faith in members of our profession."

The patient smiled cynically.

At any rate, doctor," he said, "I can truthfully attribute my cure to following very literally the directions on the bottles of medicine you sent me."

"Yes," said the doctor, smiling.

"What were they?"

"Keep the bottle tightly corked."

replied the other grimly.

Nothing But the Truth

James has just been engaged to assist the milkman.

"Now," said his master to him on the first morning, "do you see what I'm doing?"

"Yes, sir," replied James. "You're pouring water into the milk!"

"No, I'm not, James," was the answer. "You're wrong. I'm pouring milk into the water. So if anyone asks you if I put water into the milk, you be sure and tell 'em 'No.' Allus stick to the truth, James, and you'll get on in life. Cheatin' is bad enough, but lyin' is awful!"

Coolidge Defends

the Colored Race

in Special Letter

Washington, D.C., Aug. 16.—President Coolidge in a letter cited the constitutional guarantee of equal rights to all of our citizens, without discrimination on account of race or color. It was contained in a letter to Charles R. Gardner, Fort Hamilton, N.Y., concerning the candidacy of Charles D. Roberts, nominated in the race for Congress in the nineteenth district, now represented by Sen.

Bloom, Democrat.

The President had been asked to intervene to block Robert's candidacy.
He emphatically refused. "I am amazed to receive such a letter," wrote the President. "During the war 500,- 000 colored men and boys were called up under the draft and not one sought to evade it."
