THIRTY-NINE YEAR NINET'S BRUEL JAILERS.

TRUMP-SCHWIND AND ROBERT WHILE IN PRISON AT CAIRO.

The Egyptian Commission—Treatment of the Rebels—Arabi and his Counsel.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—Nineteen years protesting that he only served Arabi in the ambulance. He gives a graphic account of the fifty century of his prison in Cairo. He says that he was put on him during his journey from Cairo to Alexandria. At the latter place he was thrust into a prison flatter than that at Cairo and swarming with vermin. He was robbed by the jailers and then put on a vessel for deportation to Smyrna, but was smuggled ashore at Piræus by aid of the American officer of the ship. He went then to Bern. Nineteen years he says that there are 3000 innocent men in Egyptian prisons such as he described.

THE INDEMNITY COMMISSION.

CAIRO, Oct. 25.—The British government has made a fresh proposal to Egypt with regard to the indemnity, according to which Egypt will have two representatives on the commission, and England and France one each; the United States and Greece will be invited to send representatives and the minor states will have collective representatives.

TREATMENT OF THE REBELS.

Letters from Khartoum show that the Egyptian army in the southern provinces has received a disastrous reverse at Berber. There are incessant complaints with regard to the treatment of the families of the rebel prisoners by the Khedive's employes. Arabi's family have to shift their residence almost daily to avoid violence.

Arabi has been again with his Circassian guards and with money obtained together in an underground dungeon foul beyond description.

ARABI'S CORRESPONDENCE.

Among the correspondence of Arabi are important letters from the side of camp of the Sultan and several letters from Sheikh ul Islam. Mr. Broadley, Arabi's counsel, states that the letters throw light upon numerous telegrams found in Tel-el-Kheir.

Mr. Broadley had another interview with Arabi today. The list of witnesses to be examined by the commission at Piræus is announced. It is positively stated that the Egyptian government has no intention of doing anything to prevent the proceedings following their trial, whatever may be attempted by the Porte.

NOTES.

Gen. Wolsky has arrived at Trieste, on his way home.

It is rumored that the Sultan has ordered the proceedings against Arabi to be abandoned.

There were many arrests on Tuesday evening of Arabi who were creating a disturbance in the streets of Alexandria.

It is believed that the cost of the war in Egypt will amount to nearly £4,000,000, exclusive of the army of occupation and the Sudan contingents.

As it reached the front of the city, it was welcomed with a salute from the seven men-of-war forming the North Atlantic squadron, under the command of Rear Admiral Cooper. Simultaneously with the salute, two hundred strokes were struck on the state house bell, and all the church bells in the city were rung. William Penn, in the person of Dan Kelly, the well known retired actor, was received by deputations of Dutch, Swedes and Indians, and escorted to the Blue Anchor where the original Penn was received upon his arrival, and from the balcony of which he made an address to the throng.

Two civic parades moved at 11 o'clock. BOOK REVIEW.

"The Messes of Love" and other poems, by Carleton Hunker & Co., Toronto.

A little volume of verse much superior to most things of the kind published of late in Toronto. The poems show a delicate culture and a certain sprightliness, those descriptive of scenery especially in the Huron region, are pleasing. But the most interesting is a scolding for imitating those other Canadian writers who address to Kidean his pitiful and almost servile devotion to the god of the bow and arrow, that this Caristius got a severe sunning, a conventional prayer, "Iaving come from the many-nationed princes who come of a line never favorable to poets or painters." Caristius can do better things. Let her keep to Canadian scenes and seek the approbation of Canadians.

MEETING OF THE FIRE AND GAS AND WATER COMMITTEES.

Being and Undertaking a Fireman-Tenders for Winter Pasts—The Urgent Needs of the City in Case of Fire—New Water Main.

Bostwick's motion the assembly of the committee at the city hall at a special meeting in placing Gilbert (about whom there has been so much said) under the charge of Mr. Ashfield, chief of the fire department, was all irregular, a spirited discussion ensued. Gilbert was finally relegated to the charge of the "chief of the brigade"—not of the department. His name on the pay-list was altered to read "assistant to the electrician." He is expected to attend all fire under the direction of Chief Ashfield. A petition from the firemen protesting against the erection of blacksmith forges in Bond's new carriage works in Queen street west, was read. The petition was referred to the committee to be considered at the next meeting. The Y. M. C. The Taxidermist.

The question "which are the most beautiful, the works of nature or art?" has been freely and fully discussed by everyone and it is now generally conceded that nature is far superior to art, in that all art can do is to aim at making its works resemble nature. But there is something in the works of men's hands which makes their productions far superior to art. Yet the painter, sculptor and naturalist are necessary. For instance a man, be he ever so much an admirer of a certain class of trees would not desire it to grow in his home. All its beauties and characteristics can be plainly brought out by the brush of the painter in very much the same way as a man may be an admirer of a certain class of birds which are larger and feel on carrion. Now he would not desire to have a hawk or a vulture in his house, but he would not be a nuisance to all his neighbors. Here the work of the taxidermist comes in. He can preserve these birds in their most strikingly wild attitudes, which after being thus preserved will form an ornament for the parlor.

Dead, he wonders the phantom-land, "As he is to penetrate and know the great mysteries, Life."

ABOUT TOWN TOPICS.

DASSES HERE AND THERE BY WORLD REVERENDS.

The City yet has plenty of bust and very little business—a slow day in and around Toronto.

A gentleman who has resided in the good city of Toronto for thirty-seven years has had not for a long time seen the city so quiet as it is at present. Our reporter agreed with him, for he had not searched far and wide for whole blessed morning for something new? But he searched in vain. There was nothing stirring—but there was plenty of that, commencing with the small talk of King, Yonge and Queen streets were all but deserted, and the lady and gentleman clerks sat with each other in a listless and despondent mood. The weather was dull enough, but even the usual complaints of pretty females were scarce. Along the docks a few loungers were to be seen. The steamers were all tied up for the winter, and looked as though they might remain where they were during the following summer. There was no uncertainty about them. At the Northern railway wharves a couple of schoolboys were loading lumber for Oswego. Perhaps some twenty men were at work. But in the background a "dead" without apparent cause, where was any amount of bustle. The incoming passenger trains on all the railroads carried few travelers and the hotel registers were nearly blank. The police looked bored, but not from over-work; perhaps it was because they had nothing to do. Even the bar-tenders sighed for excites—sawing a beer-keg or dressing a whisky bottle before a thirsty customer. The day was on, but there was no relief from the monotonous stillness. Night came and the theatres the actors faced empty benches by the score. In the vicinity of the postoffice the Queen's Own lived things up a little by their drilling manoeuvres. After they dispersed and the play-houses emptied themselves of their small audiences, the streets in the gloom of the city became as quiet and gloomy as a charnel house. A "well-informed barber" but who ever saw a barber that was not well informed—last night attributed the dullness of the past week or two to the comet. Perhaps the comet is to blame. Who can say? Comet comes and goes and is dull—in the words of Rev. Mr. Somebody, d.

The Toronto Shoe Company.

This firm have an enormous quantity of boots and shoes of every description in their salerooms on the corner of King and Jarvis streets. Since they manufacture themselves they are able to give the very best. Those who are desirous of keeping their feet comfortable during cold weather should call and see the immense stock of this company.

Globe Telegraphic Enterprise.

The Globe should surpass its Montreal correspondent. That enterprising gentleman yesterday telegraphed a circular—special of course—issued on Oct. 6, respecting customs regulations. The same circular was printed in The World over a week ago. Every collector in Canada was furnished with a batch of them, and the circulars thus distributed them among importers here as handbills.

A Large Business.

The extensive brewing and malting works of the Toronto brewing and malting company are running night and day to fill orders. Yesterday sixteen heavy duty loads of the beer were shipped by rail for Toronto, Grey and Bruce railways. Their beer is known all over the province and has a large sale in the city. The brewer, was connected with the biggest establishments in Great Britain, and thoroughly understands the business.
