THE TWO RIVAL LINES.

The contest between the Grand Trunk and the Canada Pacific is being carried on all along the line. The fierceness of the contest is shown by the way in which the rivals are gobbling up the smaller lines.

CHRISTIANITY AND THE COMMON PEOPLE.

There seems to be an admission on the part of the journals friendly to the syndicate that the Canada Pacific is getting the worst of it in the contest, and they hint that something will have to be done to check the Grand Trunk.

THE N. P. AND THE NORTHWEST.

Not long ago the Montreal Witness had a letter from Rev. Mr. Scott of West Lynne, Manitoba, complaining that Canadian farmers in the Northwest were compelled by the N. P. to purchase provincial machinery and implements at high prices.

thing important, sure enough. When we try to remember, it strikes us as having been the old accepted position in Ontario, that of every dollar spent by the dominion this province contributed seventy cents or more.

We do not wish to understate what Quebec and Nova Scotia and New Brunswick say. They are paying more now than they did five years ago, due to the fact that the N. P. has added to their business and their means of payment.

It is a tremendous mistake to suppose that the N. P. makes mistakes dearer in Manitoba. If it were not for supplies of Canadian manufactures offered there, American goods of the same kind would be up to fifty per cent above alleged Pembina prices.

The World supports protection on these two grounds mainly: First, that it is necessary to make the country a nation—to make it a whole country, a self-sustaining one, to the extent possible. It advocates the industrial, manufacturing independence which is progressing in Canada today, as the material basis of the political independence which it is to be.

Again, why does not the Free Press see that upholding the N. P. is the only chance for developing manufactures in Manitoba itself? Suppose there were no N. P., would the Waterloo company of Bramford have a branch manufacturing establishment in Winnipeg? We say no, most decidedly no.

LIFE ASSURANCE.

Confederation Life Association.

PRESIDENT—SIR W. P. HOWLAND, C.B., K. C.M.G.

VICE PRESIDENTS—HON. WM. MCMASTER and WILLIAM ELLIOTT.

The directors have great pleasure in recognizing the growing popularity of the association in the largely increased volume of new business.

The profit results for the last quarter have given the greatest satisfaction to our policy-holders. These profit results have been made possible by the prudent management of the association, and by the circulation of this periodical and reports and other anonymous communications, at intervals, to the members of the association, and by the directors' constant attention to the interests of the policy-holders.

This Association's policy-holders are entitled to the fullest information and the directors are prepared to give good reason for any act of theirs which may be called in question.

As the statements made against this association will be dealt with before a court of law, the directors for the present simply state that in every essential particular the charges made by the Insurance Times and circulated in this country, are untrue.

INSURANCE.

A SOLID INSTITUTION.

THE FIVE LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY of Hartford, was organized under a charter from the legislature of Connecticut, and has a paid-up capital of $5,000,000.

During the earlier years its progress may be said to have been slow, as the management preferred to proceed carefully and judiciously, rather than incur risks and responsibilities not well understood. To the knowledge of life insurance acquired during those years, and the foundation there laid, the substantial success that has since attended the company must in a measure be ascribed.

This is a stock company, having policies upon the participants as well as non-participating plan, each in proportion to the amount of business. It gives to the insured many advantages over a purely permanent success in the careful supervision of its business by the directors and stockholders which are divided between the two departments; all the benefits of dividends and one of the liabilities.

Since its organization it has received in premiums to January 1st, 1922, $10,000,000.00. And has in good, productive assets $7,000,000.00.

This difference, $3,000,000.00, is the excess of interest over all expenses, showing that the company has not only succeeded in its operations, but has also succeeded in its operations, and has also succeeded in its operations, and has also succeeded in its operations.
