CISANBA, Feb. 11th, 1893

DEAR FRIENDS,—When I wrote last month we had just moved up to our new houses. We are fairly well settled. There are many little things yet to attend to, and these take time. We are getting the garden into shape and chicken yard built. There are many things which will make it easier when planting the corns. A very nice walk has been dug from Mr. Currie's house down to the school-house, and it passes by my house which is between them. Trees are being planted down the side of the walk, and when these grow it promises to make a very pretty avenue. When there are buildings put on the other side of the road, there will be another path formed on that side along with the waggon road between.

Last Saturday Mr. Currie went to Ciyuka for his monthly visit, and remained until Monday. He had intended to stay until Tuesday to see the school, which, according to what I hear, sees of the young people who come to visit here, is doing very well. Though only a few months started, some are reading very nicely. He also intended to finish putting in the doors and windows of the new school-house, but there were so many things here, one lad whose wife was quite ill went and brought her home on Monday. What a disadvantage it is to the work when one has to be depended on for evangelistic work, medical work and industrial work. We are looking forward to the time when others will be here to help us. We long for definite work
