

nipeg. He has done faithful and efficient work in the Mission field.

Genova, V.—An Italian with the reserve of a Saxon. Complexion, eyes, nose, mouth, hair proclaim a child of the sunny south. Speaks Italian and French with fluency and has a fair command of English. A good student.

Jamieson, S. D.—Another Eastern Townships man, but of a different type from Coburn. Takes great interest in the mission work of the church, still his forte lies in the singing of long metre psalms. Did excellent service as precentor in the Dining Hall. We are told he preaches long, doctrinal sermons. Amend thy ways, Jamie!

Keith, N. D.—Valedictorian of his year, President of the Literary Society, representative in Knox College Debate, past secretary McGill Y.M.C.A., etc., etc. Graduated at the University with honours in Semitic Languages, and is an ideal college man. Has a weakness for the college cuisine. A good man to have on your side in a scrap or a basket-ball game.

Leith, M. J.—A man who has met with much success in the mission field. Would make an excellent chaplain for one of our new hospitals. A regular tartar in a free-and-easy mêlée. Made a good secretary for the Missionary Society last session.

The Twenty-ninth Annual Report of the Students' Missionary Society reflects credit upon the officers of the Society. It should be circulated freely both in those congregations which have helped our work in the past and in others which may reasonably be expected to take an interest in our efforts.

The Mistletoe was intertwined with Orange Blossoms at Fitzroy Harbor, Ont., on Christmas Day, for on that day our popular fellow-student, Mr. Archibald Gardner Cameron, was married at the residence of the bride's parents by the Rev. A. MacGregor, B.A., to Elizabeth Annie, only daughter of David MacLaren, Esq. Mr. and Mrs. Cameron have the very best wishes of all here for a long and happy life.

The very acme of sarcasm was touched the other day when
