

223 MILTON STREET
MONTREAL

April 13th. 1924.

Dear Sir Arthur,

I was quite touched to receive your kind letter of the 9th., and to see that, in spite of all the work and responsibility which your position entails, you found time to write to a very junior member of your staff. I am very glad indeed to remain at McGill. I owe a great deal to my old Alma Mater, but I think it was personal preference just as much as loyalty which made me refuse President Murray's offer.