His death was the The provincial government have shown their determination to preserve the fair reputation of the Cobalt mining region lately besmirched by exaggerated reports of alleged rowdyism there, by appointing a permanent constable to preserve the law. While there was actually no trouble at Cobalt, it has been thought wise to be on the safe side and be prepared for any future eventualities by policing the district.

Mr. Whitney was unable to give the name of the appointee, who leaves for the north immediately.

On the verandan. His death was the result of a street car accident on July 22, in which he had his hip broken. The accident occurred at Bloor-street and Palmerston-avenue. While crossing Bloor-street Champion lost control of his wheel and ran into a street car and was knocked in front of another car. Coroner Pickering instructed Dr. Harrington, who attended the dead man, and Dr. Caven to hold a post-mortem yesterday. An inquest was opened iast night, and after a jury had viewed the remains an adjournment was made till Tuesday night.

TO MY COUNTRYMEN. · · · I.

By Poet Laureate Austin. England! supine on couch of peace,
And pillowed on your splendid past,
Think you from wars mankind will cease,
Or greatness, undefended, last?
Glory and fame,
Decline to shame,
And towering comprises And towering empires pass away, If front be gold, foundation clay.

Where are the realms upreared by trade,
And moated but by wandering main?
Where the rich argosies that mode
The majesty and might of Spain?
Brilliant but brief
As sickled sheat,
When autumn frosts and winter wind
Leave not one pompons leaf behind.

Heed not the rulers who would steep

Your days in comfort, ease and wealth:
There is no sea, however deep,
An bition could not cross by stealth.
Out upon those,
Who bid you to one barrier trust
To foil their greed, and curb their lust.

Protect your shores, without, within,
As did your steadfast sires. There lies
No manbood save with discipline,
No safety without sacrifice. So, bandits may,
Athirst for prey.
Gazing across the British waves,
See birnished barrels, gaping graves!
