The Cataract General Electric Company have contracted to deliver their power in Buffalo by November next. A despatch from Niagara Falls in to-day's paper states that the contracts for laying the wires have been let and all preliminary arrangements made. When that work is done, the company will begin to lay wires to Rochester, a distance of seventy-five niles, which place it is expected to supply with power next spring. Thereafer the line will be pushed on to New

We quote from the article in The Press: "That capitalists are convinced of his ability to do what he claims can be done, is made evident from the fact done, is made evident from the fact that, in many of the towns along the line of the canals in this state, the local electric companies are seeking to cancel existing contracts and to procure in place of them new ones running for a long period of time. We do not doubt that Toronto will soon be able to obtain 20,000 horse-power. available for twenty-four hours a day for about $300,000 a year. If the city, however, does not control the distribution of this cheap power, it will cost the consumer a fine penny before it reaches him. The whole Niagara supply will probably be cornered at the Humber by the electric companies, and the people of Toronto will have to pay three or four prices for it.

HOW TO SILENCE THE "DESERTED The World knows of no reform that will have such a beneficent effect on the farming community as the making of good roads throughout the country. Hitherto the bicycle has been almost wholly appropriated by the residents of the city. They use the wheel to get about in the city as well as to make excursions into the country as far as the roads will permit. While the citizen is no doubt greatly benefited by having ready access to the country, the farmer, on the other hand, would reprevented any widespread use of the wheel by the farming community. The first of these is the high price of bl-cycles. The second is the bad state of the roads. It looks as if there is going to be a big drop in the price of bl-cycles in the immediate future. In a year or two the farmer will be able to buy a wheel at a reasonable price and the only thing that will then stand between him and frequent and easy trips to the city is good roads. We in Ontario are some years behind the age Ontario are some years behind the age in the matter of good 'country roads. New Jersey and Massachusetts have made great headway in the improvement of their highways. But the State of Connecticut has adopted the most radical legislation of all the States to secure good roads. In 1895 an act was passed pledging the State to pay one-third the cost of one mile of road in each town each year if the county and the town will each pay one-third. the Press in Regard to it-A Straight Steal.

Hamilton Herald (Ind.): In his speech at the Liberal demonstration at St. Johns, Quebec, on Saturday, Premier Laurier made the first authoritative declaration of the new Liberal policy which has been made since the elections. To be sure, it was merely an outline of the intentions the new Administration, but it was sufficient to indicate the lines along which Mr. Laurier and his Cabinet propose to move.

It is clear that no revolutionary changes are to be made, either from the principles which have been adopted by Conservative Governments in carrying on the public business, or the methods of applying those from the methods of applying those principles. Some of the plans originat-ed by the late Government and vigor-part of these companies to protect themselves from a competition which they see to be inevitable. But the impression here is that ultimately, by some equitable arrangement, these local companies will abandon their own generating plants and purchase the power which is being transmitted over this long-distance system."

If the problem of the long-distance transmission of electricity is solved, and it appears to be solved it will not be long before this city is supplied with

Hamilton Spectator (Con.): Mr. Laurier proceeded to say what the policy in power would be. First he would reform the tariff. He would not touch the tariff at next session; but would consult the manufacturers and reform the tariff at the following session, introducing a tariff that would lighten the burden of taxation which now weighs so heavily upon the masses. The manufacturer and merchant will then be kept in a condition of uncertainty until January of next year.

Mr. Laurier also announced that he would go in for Imperial trade federation, swift steamers and the chilled meat scheme—three ideas which he stole bodily from the Conservative platform. The making of this clean steal shows that Mr. Laurier sometimes recognized a good thing when he times recognized a good thing when he can be stored to say what the City Hospital years old, is lying at the City Hospital in a rather serious condition, having been handled roughly by a law in a rather serious condition, having been handled roughly by a law in a rather serious condition, having been handled roughly by a law in a rather serious condition, having been handled roughly by a law in a rather serious condition, having been handled roughly by a law in a rather serious condition, having been handled roughly by a law in a rather serious condition, having been handled roughly by a law in a rather serious condition, having been handled roughly by a law in a rather serious condition, having been handled roughly by a law in a rather serious condition, having been handled roughly by a law in a rather serious condition, having been handled roughly by a law in a rather serious condition, having been handled roughly by a law in a rather serious condition, having been handled roughly by a law in a rather serious condition, having been handled roughly by a law in a rather serious condition, having been handled roughly by a law in a rather serious condition, having been handled roughly by a law in a rather serious condition, having been handled roughly by a law in a rather serious condition, having been hand rier proceeded to say what the policy in power would be.
