CHARGE MANSLAUGHTER

Jury's Verdict at Inquest Into Death of John Cummings - Minority Shareholders Uneasy.

HAMILTON, Jan. 27 .- (Special.)-That William Kirkpatrick is guilty of manslaughter under great provocation, in the death of John Cummings," was the verdict brought in to-night by the coroner's jury that investigated the death of John Cummings, who died from knife wounds received during a row with William Kirkpatrick in the McPherson shoe factory. Kirkpatrick will appear in police court Saturday morning to face a charge of manslaughter.

A number of witnesses were called A number of witnesses were called to-night. They were all employed in the room where the fight took place, but none would admit seeing the cutting. In summing up, Coroner Mc-Nicholl said the evidence was very unsatisfactory. GOVERNMENT'S DUT

Dr. Pakenham Tells C. M. A. Members of the Importance of Training Workmen.

Technical education, the necessity of for the development of Canadian industries and the duty resting upon the Dominion Government to supply it were the subjects discussed at the monthly business dinner of the Toronto branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association at McConkey's last night. The lieutenant-governor was present. Edward Freyseng was chairman, and Dr. William Pakenham the chief speaker. Others at the head table were A. H. Leake, inspector of technical sohools in Ontario; R. C. Steele, R. H. Eldon, principal of the Technical High School, and Dr. Ogden, chairman of the board of educa-

Sir Mortimer Clark said that any industrial or commercial undertaking industrial or commercial undertaking to endure must receive new blood. That this new blood might be secured there must be provided a training in the arts and sciences upon which the productive industries were based. Without this training a workman grew up without any comprehensive idea of the processes in which he was engaged, and a man who did the one and same thing for years was not a skilled, and a man who did the one and same thing for years was not a skilled laborer. The lack of skilled foremen and managers was due to the lack of technical training. In England the need had been felt and steps taken to satisfy it.
