ASIATIC PROGRESS RULES WORLD FUTURE

CHRISTIANITY FACTOR, SAYS EX-CROWN PRINCE

Friedrich Wilhelm, In Exclusive Interview At Locarno, Gives Opinions On World Outlook—Interested In East Indies

SAYS BOYS GOING TO DAY SCHOOL

By BYRON AXEL VON GERTZEN

Written for the United Press. Copyright 1926, by United Press

LOCARNO, May 20—Asiatic awakening and progress, especially in China and India, constitutes the most important and possibly the gravest development now facing the world, Friedrich Wilhelm, former Crown Prince of Germany, declared in an exclusive interview just before he left Locarno for Silesia.

He first denied rumors that he had purchased the village here for either himself or his father, the Ex-Kaiser of Germany.

German ministers visiting here added that probably neither the former Crown Prince nor the former Kaiser would be able to make any foreign investments.

CHRISTIANITY FACTOR "I am convinced," the Crown Prince said, "that the future of the world, and especially of western civilization, depends on the development now going on in Asia and the Pacific. What the outcome will be depends much on the way Christianity is presented to China."

He was especially interested in the development of nationalism in the Dutch East Indies and in the Indies. In his declaration, that the rapid development of Bismarckian ideas of a Central state gave too little chance for development of self-reliance and individual responsibility on the part of citizens.

EDUCATING CHILDREN "Both my wife and myself are devoting ourselves," he said, "to the task of educating our children and those of all classes to decision, kindness, individual reliance and responsibility in every day life.

"That these efforts are succeeding is evident in the day school at Potsdam where my oldest boys attend and where the students are acquiring quiet, unobtrusive but self-reliant ways."

36 RUSSIANS DIE IN SERIES OF MISHAPS

Sinking of Ferry Boat Results in Loss of Nineteen Lives

MOSCOW, May 20.—Thirty-six persons lost their lives yesterday in three accidents in different parts of Russia.

The most serious mishap was the sinking of a ferry boat in the middle of the River Sula. Nineteen persons were drowned and eleven saved.

The second accident occurred while a heavy piece of machinery was being transferred from one position to another in the Pribyl plant, near Moscow.

The machinery fouled an overhead high tension cable and fifteen workmen were electrocuted and thirteen injured.

Near Khar'kov, a passenger aeroplane on the Moscow-Tiflis route, crashed, killing two men, one of whom was a member of the staff of the newspaper Pravda.

HOLD REFERENDUM

Governor Smith Signs Bill Putting Prohibition up to People

ALBANY, N. Y., May 20.—Prohibition took its place among the issues of next fall's election campaign in this state, with the announcement last night by Governor Smith that he had signed the Karle-Phelps bill providing for a referendum on the question at the general election.

Unless the drys seek by court action to prevent submission of the question, which now is considered unlikely, the people of the state at that time will be asked to express their opinion on the following query:

"Should the Congress of the United States modify the Federal Act enforcing the eighteenth amendment so that the same shall not prohibit the manufacture, sale, transportation, importation or exportation of beverages which are not in fact intoxicating as determined in accordance with the law of the respective states?"

Gibson Sides With Lord Cecil On Armament Destruction

FRENCH DISAGREE

Questions Concerning Proposed Disarmament Conference Are Considered

British United Press.

GENEVA, May 20.—British and American delegates continue to come into conflict with those of France and the French allies on questions concerning the proposed disarmament conference to be held under the auspices of the League of Nations.

The second important clash of the preliminary meeting Wednesday was that of the question of distinction between offensive and defensive armaments.

Lord Robert Cecil, British representative, insisted that all defensive armaments, except fortifications, can be used for offensive purposes and that therefore there must be limitation of all such armaments.

QUICK TO BACK CECIL

Hugh Gibson, American representative, was quick to support Cecil's viewpoint. Gibson declared that it would be difficult to make a distinction in the matter. While coastal and internal land fortifications are generally regarded as defensive, Gibson pointed out, it is possible to utilize them for offensive purposes if they are near a frontier.

According to the American viewpoint, he said it is the use that is made of armaments rather than their character, which renders them offensive or defensive.

Paul Boncour of France, and De Broekere of Belgium, were on the front instantly to disagree with the expressions of the American and British delegates' opinion.

DIFFERENCE ESSENTIAL

Boncour insisted that it is absolutely imperative to establish a difference between offensive and defensive armaments, especially in the matter of naval armaments where he contended there is a marked difference. The commission, he said, must seek to limit as much as possible all offensive armaments but must leave individual nations free to develop their own defensive armaments. He contended that such protection is the greatest possible security against war.

The same line up with France was apparent Wednesday when the French delegate disagreed with Cecil and Gibson as was apparent Tuesday when De Broekere of Belgium followed Boncour and endorsed the French stand in its entirety.

DROP PAROCHIAL PLANS IS ADVICE

Baron Byng Addresses Huge Gathering of Vancouver Business Men

Canadian Press

VANCOUVER, B. C., May 20.—Baron Byng's farweld advice to the Canadian people whose governor general he has been for the past five years, is to drop parochialism and be true Canadians. Such was the message he gave to a huge meeting of representatives of Vancouver business yesterday.

"You have the vitality of youth and that quality you call 'pep' which is so good," said His Excellency. "Is there any fly in the ointment—none, that I can see if you will be Canadian, drop petty parochial schemes for the benefit of the whole of your country. I have tried in my visit to Canada, to talk unity because I feel it so strongly—more even perhaps, than you, because I see all the provinces."

Measures Taken To Restore Finances, Says Peret

Whole Question of Exchange and Fluctuations Examined At Meeting

PARIS, May 20.—The government announced through Finance Minister Peret at the conclusion of a cabinet council this morning, that it had decided to use every resource to support the franc, which has been steadily declining.

PARIS, May 20.—President Doumergue, Premier Briand and M. Peret, the finance Minister, together with the governor and all the regents of the Bank of France, have agreed upon measures to restore the franc as soon as possible. M. Peret, who has just returned from London, informed the correspondents to this effect after a lengthy conference at Elysee Palace.

The French minister remarked that naturally the measures must be kept a secret but declared the whole question of exchange and the causes of fluctuation had been thoroughly examined. Speaking of the London negotiations, M. Peret said, "the conversations have simply been suspended—speaking of the technical points agreed. I must return to London as soon as possible, but naturally that depends upon political events. The representatives of the Bank of France are remaining in London because a certain number of technical points are to be examined, which they can try to settle, reserving the larger question of agreement in principle, because there might be something in it that I want to deny." Today, however, he said the account was "just what I would have said myself."

AMUNDSEN GIVES STORY APPROVAL

Leader of Polar Flight Says Noble's Account is an Accurate One

OSLO, Norway, May 20.—Captain Rold Amundsen, head of the flight across the North Pole in the dirigible Norge, said today that the account of the trip written by Col. Nobile, Italian designer of the airship, and sent to Rome, was correct. When Col. Nobile's narrative reached Oslo from Italy last Monday, Captain Amundsen asked that he be permitted to read it before publication in the Norge Nugget, because "there might be something in it that I want to deny." Today, however, he said the account was "just what I would have said myself."

TELLS OF CONFERENCE

The minister declared that his conversations with Sir Austen Chamberlain, the British Foreign Secretary, and Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer, demonstrated to him that British statesmen were well disposed to aid France. He expressed the hope that France and Great Britain would arrive at a common ground on such questions as the safeguarding clause, moratorium, transfer clause, the deposit of French gold in London— which, he interjected, hold much at heart—and the settlement of the Bank of France's debt to the Bank of England, therefore M. Peret wanted reimbursement further delayed, saying "we must not hasten matters."

PUZZLED BY DROP

He concluded by remarking that the British could not understand the fall of the franc; they did not wish it, and had nothing to gain thereby—and the British cost of living was formidable. The decline of the franc, which is causing fear for the life of the Briand cabinet has resulted in strong pressure within the government in favor of prompt radical measures including use of the $80,000,000 available from the Morgan loan.

WISTING AT BLUFF

Captain Oskar Wisting, one of three of the crew of the Norge, who came here with Amundsen Sunday after the dirigible landed at Teller, 75 miles from Nome, following the trip over the North Pole, was at bluff, Alaska, today, 60 miles east of here, on the north coast of the Bering Sea. He is expected back shortly.
