PREVENTS MOLD

IN TUBS OF BUTTER

Treatment Includes Soaking

in Water and Use of Live Steam.

Many forms of treatment for the prevention of mold forming in butter in tubs have been devised by various people, but that proving most effective under comparative experiment carried on by the United States Department of Agriculture consists in soaking the tubs in cold water, steaming them with live steam, paraffining the inner surface, and then rubbing over the paraffin with salt. In addition, the liners for the tubs are soaked for thirty minutes in a saturated solution of boiling brine. Under the supervision of the department several million pounds of butter have been packed in tubs and liners treated in this manner and no cases of mold have been reported.

A number of methods of treating tubs and liners have been tried out in comparison with one just described, but no other has been equally successful. Some tubs and liners were merely soaked in cold water, and in but one mold made an abundant growth. When the tubs and liners were soaked in a saturated solution of cold brine the growth of the mold was somewhat reduced. Butter in tubs that were soaked in water and steamed for thirty seconds with live steam, and lined with liners that had been dipped in a saturated solution of boiling brine, developed very little mold, but still better when paraffin and salt were used as described above.

The treatment found most satisfactory in inexpensive and meets the needs of creameries of any type and in any part of the country.

oppression and persecution which were so often laid to the charge of Islam, the marshal, as an observer in the Orient and in Africa, had this excuse, that even among countries which proclaimed themselves civilized, there were few who could with clear consciences constitute themselves judges. France, he said, had gained double strength from her union with Islam, and together they would pursue their course "without violence, without destruction and without domination, but with order and respect for all legitimate national claims and for all national territories, with tolerance for all beliefs and convictions, and with such they would be the preponderant factor in the peace of the world."

DAMAGE BY STORM.

A great deal of damage has been reported from towns on the Cape Breton coast following a heavy gale which struck there early yesterday morning and raged until about 9 o'clock last night. The schooner Bonita caught fire and blew up a few minutes after the crew of three had taken to the dory. In spite of a terrible buffet, the ship and sea they managed to reach land safely. The Fro Patria was forced to put back into North Sydney and parts of North Sydney were put out of commission.

ENGLAND'S NEW PROPERTY LAW

An interesting study of the Birkenhead law concerning inheritance and property rights is made by an English barrister writing in The London Mail. We are told that the new law will abolish that primogeniture in the inheritance of real estate which has operated to keep large properties intact and has made so great a contrast between the status of the eldest and the younger sons. Sons and daughters will be on an equality as heirs and women on an equality with men as owners of property.

The movement, already under way, for breaking up large estates will be accelerated.

The social consequences of giving wives complete independence of their husbands in the holding and disposition of property and enlarged rights to the estates of deceased husbands will, of course, be highly important. The new British system approximates to the common American system.
