MARITIME PROVINCES AND CANADA

The Toronto Globe recently referred to the policy of Premier Armstrong of Nova Scotia as outlined before the Commercial Club of Halifax and questioned this paragraph from his speech:

"What is good for Canada as a whole will influence us for good. The East and the West must co-operate to this end. In unity there is strength. But if Canada is to be great, and that should be the patriotic desire of all, the Maritime Provinces, with their numerous resources, possibilities and opportunities, must also be made great, for a chain is no stronger than its weakest link."

Commenting on this, with special reference to lack of growth and stagnation in these provinces, the Globe said: "There is no ground for discouragement in the fact that the rate of increase since Confederation has not been very rapid, especially when it is considered that there has been comparatively little immigration. But as compared with European standards the population is still sparse, and there is plenty of room for more people. As an inducement to immigration Nova Scotia can offer a variety of employment, having resources in its fertile soil, its mines and its fisheries, so that to a large extent it may be described as self-contained. It deserves an increased immigration, and we hope that the effort will be successful."

The Halifax Recorder quotes, the Globe and makes this apt reply: "The Globe's words sound very nice, but what Nova Scotia wants is a market for its products, and when it obtains that, we have no doubt it will go ahead by leaps and bounds."

The Recorder might have gone further and declared that what the Maritime Provinces also want is the development of their ports and a fair share of the overseas trade of Canada, as promised at the time of Confederation. Nice words are not enough. These provinces have definite grievances.

HOW WILL IT END?

The German Chancellor is credited with saying that Germany has only begun to fight, not with arms, of course, but by the method of passive resistance. The rest of the country is asked to see to it that the people of the Ruhr region get food, so that they may not be forced by hunger to yield to the demands of the French. The task undertaken by France is far more formidable than had been expected. England is unwilling to put anything in France's way, but objects to being made an active partner in the proceedings. The English Labor leader wants to know why, if France can afford to maintain an army in Germany, should he not pay some of her debts. In the House at Washington a member has introduced a resolution declaring the French occupation of the Ruhr to be "an act of war against a starving people," and calling upon France to pay a part of her debt to the United States. For this he is bitterly assailed by at least a portion of the press, but in the United States there is far from being universal approval of the French policy. There is not yet behind the proposal to have an independent commission to determine the ability of Germany to pay enough force to give it effect, however, and there seems nothing to do but await developments in the Ruhr region. A determined test of endurance is there being made, and the outcome is very obscure. It would be very unfortunate if the Entente should be broken up, but even that may happen as a result of differing French and British views regarding the wiser method of dealing with German reparations.

Moncton is to be congratulated on the success of its skating meet yesterday. The citizens have no reason to regret the boost they are giving to clean winter sport. We shall presently see some champions coming out of Moncton. That city does nothing by halves. St. John people would be glad to see Moncton make a success of every line of amateur sport, and the two cities are so close that one can stimulate the other to a healthy rivalry, wherein only the best of good-feeling would prevail.

Premier Oliver of British Columbia believes in telling the whole story. Before leaving Ottawa this week he submitted to Premier MacKenzie King a list of the requirements of his province which would give Parliament food for discussion a good part of the session. The Atlantic provinces should not perhaps submit as long a list at the outset, but they should not default in the matter of making known their more pressing wants while the people's representatives are in session.

Great bodies of ice are reported off the Atlantic coast. We can well believe it. The March and April sun will have a sizeable job right here in New Brunswick.

IRELAND'S WOR

An Irish Bishop has declared that those guilty of murder, robbery and wanton destruction are unworthy of sacraments and must be denied absolution while they persist in these acts. Apparently, however, those who are opposing the Free State Government have no more regard for the admonitions of the church than they have for the lives of those who are seeking to restore peace and prosperity to Ireland. It is a most deplorable condition of affairs that only Irishmen can change. The Free State Government has been very lenient with De Valera, for it is hardly conceivable that it could have laid him by the heels before this time. No doubt it has been felt that to make a martyr of him might make his followers more savagely determined, but as the case stands today it would seem at this distance that nothing short of putting an end to his threats and proclamations would meet the situation. It is doubtless true that the most of those who are burning and killing are irresponsible persons easily led, or members of the criminal class, but there are fanatical leaders who ought to be rounded up and rendered incapable of further instigation of crime. Until peace reigns in Southern Ireland there can be no friendly negotiations between the South and the North; and these are essential to the true progress and prosperity of Ireland. It must be said that the Free State Government has shown great forbearance, and a most earnest desire to bring peace without unnecessary bloodshed, but not so the followers of De Valera. In the end the Government will prevail.

OIL ON TROUBLED WATERS

The Provincial Opposition party is in session in the Seamen's Institute in this city this afternoon. Far be it from the Times to toss the apple of discord in this direction. Up to the time of the meeting, no harm has been done, but the fire alarm has not been heard, nor have any arms or legs been precipitated through the windows of the conference hall. It may therefore be taken for granted that the doves of peace sit above the Victory Shield, and the brethren are not at enmity. It may indeed be worth while to note some observations made by the Fred. Gleaner in the interests of that harmony which should prevail among the elect. Referring to Leader Palmer it says:

"What what of the interests of the party which, under his leadership, has gone from bad to worse from the very day he took up the work, or thought he was taking it up?"

Again, after some remarks which this discreet journal will not reproduce, the Gleaner says: "The Opposition has already lost, under absurd leadership two of its strongholds in this province; and well-informed men admit that now there is not a safe constituency left."

Once more the Gleaner, after some references to the past, delivers itself as follows: "We repeat that the Opposition can not make progress, it can not even hope to acquire any measure of public confidence until it has cut its own isolation with the political crooks that dominated in the provincial field a few years ago."

In this soothing fashion does the Gleaner pour oil on troubled waters, and add to the public interest in the conference, which took the public into the first notes of harmony broke upon the ears of the assembled brethren.

A citizen with a liking for statistics has been figuring out how much it costs the city every time the City Council talks about hydro. As they do not discuss the matter more than three times per week, and then for say half an hour, he figures that the cost for each of these half hours to the taxpayers is nearly $800, since the work of getting on with the sub-station and distribution system is further held up by each of these talks. Can the city really afford the luxury? The Civic Power Commission wants to get on with the job.

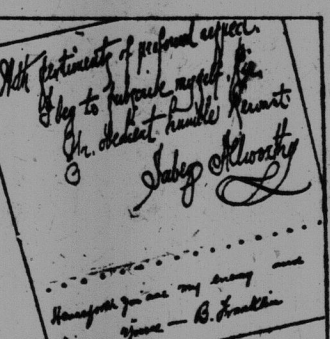

St. John undoubtedly needs a Home for Aged Men. There is available, thanks to several generous friends, the nucleus of a fund for the erection of such a Home. That it will grow and the Home be provided can only be regarded as a question of time.

A girl sixteen years old who has never been in school has been discovered in this city. If a census were taken of all who never got beyond the third grade, the people of a city with free schools would get a severe jolt.

It is plain that the question of Grand Falls power will be a very interesting topic of discussion when the Provincial Legislature meets.

MARY PICKFORD IN NEW "TESS" FILM

Capacity Houses Enjoy Re-play of Old Story—A Fine Presentation.

Importance attaches to the showing in this city for the first three days of this week at the Imperial of Mary Pickford's notable 1922 production of "Tess of the Storm Country." This screen event marks a vital epoch in the photoplay history inasmuch as it is the first instance in which a great star has resurrected from the past the picture which won her a permanent place in the progress of the film-making industry.

It was just eight years ago that Miss Pickford portrayed the lovable character of Tess before the motion picture camera and this artistic triumph of hers was so all-encompassing there is no way of determining how many millions of people in all the civilized nations of the world saw it.

As a matter of fact, this photoplay was exhibited continuously every print was worn out and the negative was lost. Miss Pickford has been the recipient of thousands of requests to once more offer herself in this mastery story.

Newspapers and magazines of many countries have joined in the clamor for this new production. As a consequence "America's Sweetheart" has responded by making a greatly improved version of the play. Critics everywhere declare it to be her most artistic achievement and the greatest triumph of her career.

There is an element of romance in the story of the joint meeting in New York and Chicago to hear a lecture and discussion illustrated by slides. It is not as fantastic as talking into space by radio. Nothing can quite capture the imagination as much as the thought of a human voice, speaking into a transmitter in Newark, picked up simultaneously by amateur radio operators in Cuba or the Rockies or by ships on the seas.

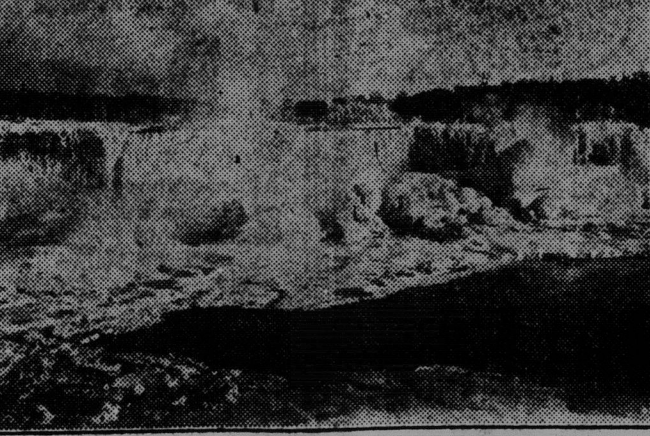

Such transmission, however, is one-sided. Many may hear, but only one can speak at a time. In this case two case two audiences met in two widely separated places.

In the same subject, and both heard it discussed, first by a man in Chicago and then by one in New York. There was no radio, but a good, old-fashioned long-distance telephone with amplifying devices. In the discussion that took place after the lecture the Chicagoans as well as the New Yorkers were interested.

The regular monthly meeting of Graduate Nurses' Association was held last night in the Health Centre, with Miss Sarah E. Brophy presiding. The proceeds of the tea held about two weeks ago were reported and amounted to more than $200. Regular routine business was transacted.

THE NEWLYWEDS' PARADISE AS IT IS IN WINTER

Most Canadians are familiar with the beauties of Niagara Falls in summer, but not many are familiar with it in its fantastic winter garb. The ice formations at the Falls are sometimes remarkably beautiful in winter, as the picture shows.

one of the foremost cinema classics of the first two decades of the new art. Miss Pickford in the role of Tess is said to be truly at her very best and her performance reveals the finished touches of artistry which is so distinctly her own. The supporting cast also has selected personally is most capable.

Lloyd Hughes, who plays the leading male role created by the late Harold Lockwood, is especially acceptable, while Gloria Hope in the part of Tess's mother, Mrs. John D'Almeida, is a worthy support. Robert Russell, David Torrence, Danny Hoy, Gus Saville and Mimi de Bodin are also in the cast.

John S. Robertson directed this revival with Shaw Lovett assisting. Elmer Harris adapted the piece from Grace Miller White's famous novel. Frank Orniston fulfilled the duties of art director brilliantly, the settings being unusually realistic.

The story unfolded in "Tess of the Storm Country" has to do with a group of fishermen who had "squatted" on lake-shore land belonging to a wealthy man's daughter from disgrace and the ending is such as pleases everyone after the heroine has gone through all the agonies of having her father arrested and tried for murder.

BARS PATENT MEDICINE FOR BEVERAGE PURPOSE

Augusta, Me., Feb. 20.—In the Senate last week, Senator Spencer of York introduced an act relating to the sale of patent medicines, drugs, extracts, and other combinations for beverage or tonical purposes. The act provides that whoever knowingly sells, distributes or dispenses any patent medicine, drug, extract, or any other combination containing one-half of one per cent. or more of alcohol, shall be deemed a common seller and on conviction shall be punished accordingly.
