NEW VALLEY OF NATURAL AND OTHER WONDERS IN CAN. ROCKIES EXPLORED

(Montreal Star.)

Professor J. G. Adami, of McGill College, has recently returned from British Columbia. He came back greatly impressed by the beauty and natural advantages of a valley, which is as yet little known, which, nevertheless, he considers not only the noblest valley in the near future, a fruit-growing region having advantages even greater than the Okanagán. This is the valley of the Upper Columbia river, running between the Rocky Mountains in the Selkirks, and stretching from Golden, on the main line of the Canadian Pacific, to Fort Steele.
