The End is Paralysis

If the Wasted Nerves are not restored and revitalized by Dr. Chase's Nerve Foed.

"A living mind in a dead body" is the way paralysis is sometimes described. What can be more horrible than to lose all control of the body and feel death gradually claiming you for its own?

Sleeplessness, nervousness, headache, loss of energy and vitality, gloomy forebodings, easy fatigue and weakness of the body are ptoms of the nerve exhaustion which will finally end in paralysis, nervous pros tration or insanity.

Whether overwork, worry or irregular habits were the cause, restoration can be most effectually brought about by a few months' treatment with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great restorative in pill form. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food instils vital er ergy into the body, stops the wasting pro cess and gradually but surely builds up the system, creates new nerve force and per-manently cures all nervous disorders and weaknesses of men, women and children. As a restorative its efficacy is unrivalled by any preparation known to science. It restores color to the cheeks, roundness to the form and elasticity to every movement of the body.

ST. GEORGE'S DAY.

Luncheon at the Park.

Responsibility, and the Religious Aspect of the War.

Quite a number of flags were flying in the city Monday, in honor of St. George's Day.

St. George's society met and attend ed a special service at 7 p. m. in Trinity church, the sermon being preache by his lordship Bishop Kingdon, who s the chaplain of the society. There were special hymns, psalms and les sons, and the service was a very im pressive one, though not largely attended. His lordship was assisted in the service by the rector and curate of Trinity.

For his text Bishop Kingdon select ed Jeremiah xviii., 9-10. All God's dealings with men, said the preacher, are conditional. To illustrate the fact instances were cited from Holy Scripture, in the case of Abraham, Eli, Ahab, Paul the disciples and others, showing that all of God's promises, whether of blessing or punishment were joined to a condition, either expressed or implied. What is true of individuals, the speaker observed, is true in the case of nations and of churches. There is no such thing as an absolute decree for good or evil till the day of man's or the nation's choice is over and past. Some such thought as this may of late have been in the minds of devout Englishmen. The diamond jubilee revealed the power and influence of the empire, but it also began to reveal to us our great responsibility, individually and collectively. We learned with how many nations that know not Christ we are brought into close relations, and whom it is our duty to Christianize.

One of the causes of the present war, said the bishop, was the fact that England desired to Christianize South Africa, while those who invaded her territory not only did not desire to Christianize but actually interfered with the worship of Christian natives. The power of Britain has grown, we scarce know when or how, but little by little it has developed. This sail war has come to weld together the various countries so widely separated in space but united by a common loyalty, a common responsibility and common interests. There are many tokens that it is God's will that we should succeed. It is significant that the victorious march of our armies should have begun on the very Day of Supplication, just as on a former occasion a favorable turn in what was feared to be a fatal illness of the Prince of Wales took place on the very day set apart by the nation for solemn intercession. It was reasonable to believe that this was an answer to the prayer of the nation. We must believe that God has some special work for us as a people to do. This great power has not been given for nothing Let us therefore pray that the outcome of our work will be civilization following in the footsteps of Christianization. Our nation has been called to fight the dragon in the heathen world. but let us also beat down the serpent in our path at home. Let us cease not to pray for the success of our armies, but let us order our own lives in conformity to our prayers. Then may we hope for God's blessing, and that He will make us a means to do His

At the conclusion of the sermon collection in aid of the second conting. ent fund was taken up. The service closed with the national anthem. After the service the members, with invited guests, gathered at the Park hotel, where a supper was served at half-past 9 c'clock. After supper the following toasts and songs were given and received most enthusiastically: The Queen, proposed by President Dr. Addy: songs by J. N.
