But as the money had been mainly expended in creating harbor facilities and pub-lic utilities, the city's credit today was even better than that of the province. Ald, Frink expressed the opinion that the federal government, when the wharves on the West Side were com-pleted, would realize that it would not be advisable to enter into com-petition with the city, and would de-cide to take over all the city's har-bor works and place them under the control of a commission, as in Mon-treal.
